RACING NOTES AND TURF GOSSIP

Sadko And Soldier Of Britain Top Weights In Main Event

The feature of the Annual Meeting was the lowering of several Australian Pony records while in China Pony only two were broken—one by Soldier of Britain with Mr. Sun up in the Ladies' Purse (Once Round) in 1.44.4/5 beating Apollo's time 1.47.1/5th, and the other was by Ribble with Mr. Needa up in the penultimate event, 'The Happy Valley Spring Handicap A Division' (From the 2 Mile Post Once Round and In) in 2.12.2/5 Beating King's Justice time by 1/5th of a second.

WILL HEROD WIN?

Now that Annual Meeting of the Hong Kong Jockey Club is over, let us concentrate on the Extra Meetings, first of which is being held to-day (First Saddle Bell at 1.30 p.m.) and subsequent Meetings will be on the following dates:—

Second Extra Meeting on March 23.

Third Extra Meeting on April 6. Fourth Extra Meeting (Easter) on April 20 and 22.

Fifth Extra Meeting on May 4. Sixth Extra Meeting on May 18. Seventh Extra Meeting on June 1.

Arising out of the question of records, Diana Bay although not in time-breaking, has two Dead Heats at the Annual Meeting, one with Trentbridge in the New Stables Plate and the other with King's Warden in the Challenge Cup, and both ponies are practically from the same stables.

Mr. Norman Dietz who figured at the top of the List of winning Jockeys for the year 1934 has no win to date and Messrs P. Botelho, E. Butler and E. Proulx are in the same category. However I expect all of them will make their acquaintances with Judge Tester at to-day's Meeting.

The main event for to-day is the Hong Kong Handicap "A" Division over 1 1/2 Miles and in view of the fact that Mr. Dunbar has been sporty enough not to enter Liberty Bay, the Handicapper has set a cross-word puzzle "Find the Winner."

Hay and Corn Stakes

The first race on the Card is "The Hay and Corn Stakes" for Subscription Griffins or any Season that have started twice this year and not won. A big field is assured and being Five Furlongs event, anything may happen. According to book-form Young Chap, Cavalcade and Partnership should past the line in that order, but I prefer Chesterfield who is very good for short distance. I understand that Mr. Frost will take him out and as the jockey is quick at the barrier, one each way is quite safe.

Soldier of Peace for "Litterers"

The Griffins of this Season that have started at least twice and not won will have to carry some weights in the "Litterers Stakes" as it is to be ridden by Novices with 2 lb. penalty for each race won. I understand the following will weigh out:—

However, if H. Botelho does not get excited, I believe his saddle number will be in the frame first to be followed by Ythan and Soldier of Victory.

In the "All Out Stakes" I do not expect to see a big field due to the presence of such stalwarts as Hetman, King's Fancy and Oak Bay, and the order of the finish will be as follows:—Hetman, Oak Bay and King's Fancy.

Got That for Randwick Plate

A very poor entry, in fact only 5, has been received for the Randwick Plate for Australian Ponies of this Season that have started and have not won. I cannot see anything to beat Got That and Mr. Harold Seth or his nominee will certainly have the pleasure to lead in the pony to be followed by Snowy River and Racing Lass. The last named will be racing under the new Colours of Mr. Pau Yin Wai.

Tytam Handicap "A"

Invincible Knight has been assessed top weight 168 lb and it was really bad luck that this pony was unplaced in the Sub-Champions. He was full of running into the straight but between the Distance Post and the Mile Post he

HUNAN-KWEICHOW HIGHWAY

Changsha. The projected Hunan-Kweichow Inter-provincial Highway must be completed in 110 days, states an order of General Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Military Affairs Commission. The work is to be rushed in order to facilitate the operations against the Red bandits.

Soldier-labour will be utilized in the construction. Units of the 53rd Government Division under Lieut-General Li Yun-heng and the Kweichow Division under Lieut-General Yang Chi-chang will build the Kweichow section of the highway, 385 li (128 miles) long. The men of the 23rd Division under Lieut-General Li Yun-chieh will build the Hunan portion, totalling 375 li (125 miles).—Kuo Min.

OMNIBUS CARAVAN

Kueihua. A fleet of seven omnibuses left here recently for Hami, eastern Sinkiang, along the Suiyuan-Sinkiang Highway. Besides over 8,000 cattle of cargo and mail matter, the buses carried 16 passengers, including six women and two children, who are relatives of former North-eastern Volunteers now staying in Sinkiang.

A consignment of radio equipment and materials, donated by the Ministry of Communications to the Suiyuan Sinkiang Motor-bus company for a radio station at Erhliuho in Sinkiang, was also on board.—Kuo Min.

ALCOHOL INSTEAD OF GASOLINE FOR OMNIBUSES

Nanking. The Ministry of Industry is in receipt of a telegram from the Hunan Provincial Highway Bureau, suggesting the use of alcohol, in place of gasoline, in the operation of omnibus services. The message states that experiments with the new fuel have proved successful, and after further experiments on the Changsha-Hengyang Highway, its use will be extended to other highways.

In this connection, it may be noted that the Hunan Provincial Government recently established an alcohol plant in Changsha to develop the industry in the province.—Kuo Min.

NANNING-KWEIYANG LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

Nanning. Direct long-distance telephone service between Nanning and Kweiyang, respectively provincial capitals of Kwangsi and Kweichow, was inaugurated when General Li Tsung-jen, Commander of the Kwangsi Provincial

INDUSTRIAL

Nanking. It is learnt that Mr. D. J. Evans, who for nearly five years has been adviser to the Bureau of Foreign Trade in the Ministry of Industry, has accepted a concurrent post as adviser to the National Government Commission of Administrative Efficiency, recently established under the chairmanship of Mr. Wang Ching-wei, President of the Executive Yuan.

This Commission was established last year to undertake a systematic study of administrative methods and make suggestions for the improvement of the existing system with a view to greater efficiency and economy in the Civil Service.—Kuo Min.

CO-OPERATION IN MATCH MANUFACTURE

Nanking. Arrangements for co-operation in the manufacture and sale of matches have been agreed upon between match manufacturers in the six provinces of Kiangsu, Chekiang, Anhwei, Kiangsi, Tsuph and Hunan, so as to secure a united front in resisting the dumping of Japanese goods.

It has been agreed that production of the various factories should be determined by quota according to current demands. Areas of sale are to be demarcated among the factories, avoiding competition and price-cutting with one another. It was also decided that all unnecessary expenses be cut down for the sake of economy.—Kuo Min.

BANKS AND FACTORIES IN KIANGSI

Nanking. With regard to the recent joint petition of the Kiangsi Provincial and Kanhhsien District Chambers of Commerce for the establishment of banks and factories in Kiangsi, and as a result of conferences between the Ministries of Finance and Industry, it is understood that the Central Bank of China, Bank of China and Bank of Communications, have been instructed by the Ministry of Finance to establish branches in that province.

The big industrial concerns have likewise been urged by the Ministry of Industry to open factories in Kiangsi, in order to facilitate the economic rehabilitation of the province.—Kuo Min.

ENGINEERING AND BUILDING

THE SKYSCRAPER OF THE FUTURE THE BIGGEST DAM IN THE WORLD

115 Miles Long, 600 Feet Deep

The ten-storey Home Insurance Building, Chicago, erected in 1884, is credited with being the pioneer skyscraper of skeleton construction. It was "demolished," with five adjoining structures, in 1931-3 and on their site was erected the Field Building, the centre portion of which is 43 storeys, 535 ft. high. This building when formally opened, April 28, 1934, made available 1,000,000 sq. ft. of rental area. Between the two dates, 1884 and 1934, 5,000 buildings of ten storeys or more in height were built in the United States and Canada. Giant structures like the Empire State Building and the Rockefeller Centre, both of New York City, mark the end of the period. At the close of the past year, building construction of the skyscraper type was practically at a standstill. The question is being asked: Is this condition permanent?

An editorial article in the New York Times, of August 21, 1934, contained the following statement: "Even before the great crash and the great depression the skyscraper was under suspicion from the standpoint of sound economics. It did not always pay for itself as a renting enterprise. A large part of the return was supposed to be in advertising. But for that purpose a skyscraper had to be more than tall. It must be taller or taller. People were not erecting high buildings but higher buildings, primarily for the world to look at and talk about and only subsequently for people to dwell in. The economic collapse has turned this into very costly publicity."

No More Skyscrapers? It may be taken as certain that until a large percentage of the now unrented space is occupied, no more skyscrapers will be built. Mr. William Orr Ludlow, chairman of the Committee on Industrial Relations of the American Institute of Architects, says in his report of April 11, 1933, to the Institute: "It is possible that skyscrapers will not be built again for many a long day, perhaps never. The skyscraper era is closing, and the tall buildings of today may be curiosities in the future." It is certainly probable that no more super-tall buildings, "sky-piercers," will be required. However, when the present vacant rental space is occupied, as it one day will be, new office buildings will be needed and unless land values in large cities depreciate far beyond what at present appears likely, they will be of the skyscraper type.

Engineers and architects during the past two or three years have given much thought to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. The Exposition, which was a success in 1933, was again re-opened for the season of 1934.

The buildings housing the exhibits differ from those of any previous exhibition. Mr. Daniel Hudson Burnham, Director of Works, as well as secretary of the Exposition, has decided views on the subject of the coming skyscraper. In an article, entitled "Skyscrapers of the Future," he described some of the unique features of the Exposition buildings, which were the result of economic necessity.

Skyscraper Built in 180 Days

The Exposition, unlike all previous adventures of the kind, was financed by private capital. It was to last 150 days after which the buildings were to be "torn down." However, Mr. Burnham says, "in a few years, or perhaps in a few months, we may expect skyscrapers to go up in 180 days and be replaced in two decades. They will be built to last just as long as their elevators, plumbing and other mechanical fixtures may be expected to remain serviceable and no longer." He proceeds: "Tomorrow's skyscraper will not be a skyscraper at all in the ordinary sense of heavy steel and heavy masonry." The "synthetic skyscraper," he claims, can be built for less than half the cost and can be erected in half the time now required. Moreover, "its useful life will be limited to twenty years, after which it will be salvaged. Walls will be only three or four inches thick, the outer ones enamelled with insulation between. It will be virtually windowless, illumination coming from neon hidden in portable torches. Its heating plant will purify and humidify the air, and maintain a cool temperature in summer. It will bring about a stabilisation of present property values and tend to break up shifting of business area." Mr. Burnham feels sure that the occupants of such a structure whether it be fifteen storeys or a hundred and fifty storeys, will live under more healthy and comfortable conditions than are possible in the most luxurious office to-day.

Lowered inch by inch during the night, a huge steel gate, weighing 1,350 tons, which is to hold back the turbulent waters of the Colorado River and from the largest lake ever made by man, has finally stopped the flow of water. The lake will be in the boundary region of Nevada and Colorado.

This is the first phase of a project costing by the construction of a great dam known as the Boulder Dam and to use the stored-up water for the generation of electricity and for the irrigation of 1,000,000 acres of arid land. It has been completed in four and a half years—two and a half years ahead of the agreed time.

It will take three years to fill the great reservoir, which will finally extend for 115 miles up the canyons of the Colorado River, ranging in width from a few hundred feet to eight miles. An aqueduct 250 miles long will carry some of this stored-up water to Southern California.

Flood Control Part of the electrical power generated, which is expected to reach the equivalent of nearly 2,000,000 h.p. will be carried over the biggest transmission line in the world to Los Angeles, 270 miles away. Enough water will be obtained by next autumn to start the generation of electric power, but before then the dam is expected to prove extremely valuable in flood control, protecting an area where widespread damage has been done in the past.

The Boulder Dam itself is one of the wonders of modern engineering. It is 727 ft. high, 1,180 ft. wide at the top, where it is 45 ft. thick and 650 ft. thick at the base, which stands on solid rock. More than 3,000,000 cubic yards of concrete have been used in its construction, and 5,000 men have been employed on the work since 1930. When the reservoir is full the water will be nearly 600 ft. deep at the dam.

SCOTTISH SHIPBUILDING ORDERS

Two further shipbuilding contracts have been placed on the Clyde during the past week, and there are rumours of several more orders being fixed up at no very distant date. The order just placed with Messrs. Ailsa Shipbuilding Company, Limited, Troon and Ayr, is for a single-screw vessel of 1,000 tons gross and 1,350 tons deadweight capacity for Mr. William Robertson, shipowner, Glasgow. She is to be used for the Continental and home trade, and is to be of the raised quarter-deck type and to be built under Lloyd's special survey. The hull scantlings in several respects will be in excess of the classification requirements. A cruiser stern and streamlined rudder will be fitted. She is to be built at the Troon yard, and will be propelled by Diesel machinery fitted aft, and having sufficient power for a service speed of fully 10 knots. The auxiliary machinery on deck and in the engine room will be electrically driven. The other order placed this week is for a twin-screw, direct-drive Diesel passenger vessel, about 250 ft. long, to be built by Messrs. William Denny and Brothers, Limited, Dumbarton, for the London and Southend Shipping Company, Limited. This vessel, which is intended for the owners' daily summer service between London, Southend and the Continent, makes the third contract booked by Messrs. Denny within four weeks, and is the fourth placed on the Clyde since this year commenced.

Pollard-Lowley's address is necessary. In India he said, as the result of the work of British engineers an area of 49,461 sq. miles had been irrigated, constituting one eighth of the cultivated area of the sub-continent.

FINE CONTRACTS

Some Recent Orders

Messrs. British Insulated Cables Limited, Prescott, Lancs., manufactured and supplied the whole of the conductors for the telephone and telegraph circuits connecting Haifa and Tripoli with Haasar, through the principal operating station at Haditha, along the Iraq Petroleum Company's new pipeline routes, referred to in our last week's issue. Upwards of 5,000 miles of cadmium-copper wire, weighing 300 lb. per mile, and 600 miles weighing 70 lb. per mile, were supplied, or 696 tons in all. Quantities of other types of cables and conductors were also supplied.

Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Limited, North Woolwich, London, have received orders from Messrs. Cowans, Sheldon and Company, Limited, Carlisle, for a steel crane pontoon for Cliffe, Isle of Grain, and from the Grand Union Canal Carrying Company, Limited, for 24 pairs of motor boats and butty boats for use on the Canal.

Messrs. The Fretwell Heating Company, Limited, Abbey House, Victoria-street, London, have secured an order from Messrs. A. E. Lindsey, Limited, Edmonton, for steam plant, unit-heating system and dust-extraction apparatus. Other recent orders are for heating and air-conditioning installations for two cinema theatres.

Messrs. Hopkinson, Limited, Huddersfield, have supplied 12 centrifugal oil purifiers to Messrs. Iraq Petroleum Company, Limited, for purifying the lubricating oil used by the Diesel engines at the various stations along the new Iraq pipe line. The machines are designed to deal with 140 gallons of oil per hour.

Messrs. International Combustional, Limited, Aldwych House, Aldwych, London, have just secured an important contract for boiler plant for the West Australian Government power station at East Perth. The order covers three high-pressure water-tube boilers, each evaporating 135,000 lb. of steam per hour, to be fired by the Lopusco system

EXCHANGE OF SHIPYARDS

Agreement Between Two Clyde Firms

A scheme of shipyard exchange between the two noted Greenock firms, Messrs. Scott's Shipbuilding and Engineering Company, Limited, and Messrs. Greenock Dockyard Company, has been finally agreed to and will take effect almost at once. The Dockyard Company's yard is at present sandwiched in between Messrs. Scott's East and West yards, and the arrangement arrived at is that the former will move into Messrs. Scott's East shipyard and hand over their present yard to the latter. From all points of view it would seem to be an admirable arrangement for both companies, as Messrs. Scott's will now be able to concentrate all their activities in one large complete shipyard, whereas the Dockyard Company will be able to undertake the building of a larger class of vessel, and will be, incidentally, brought into closer touch with the Garvel Graving Dock, where they are carrying on a large amount of ship-repair and overhaul work. They will also have the added advantage that a railway line runs into their new yard. They have one vessel at present on the stocks, and as she is to be launched this week, the transference to their new yard can be carried out at once, as approval to the new arrangement has been given by the Greenock Harbour Trust. The Clan liner ordered recently from the Dockyard Company will shortly be laid down in the new yard.

of pulverized fuel. The order includes all the auxiliary equipment, buildings, &c., the latter to house the new turbo-alternator and switchgear, which are being supplied under other contracts by Messrs. C. A. Parsons and Company, Limited, and Messrs. Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Company, Limited.

ENGINEERS AND THE EMPIRE

Huge Undertakings Completed

It is a trite, but nevertheless true saying, that the creative artist is more interested in his work while it is in production than he is when it is completed. The novelist and the poet not uncommonly regard their outpourings, when they have been translated into type, with a coldness and even an aversion, that the layman finds astonishing, and the humble technical writer is not unfamiliar with the same mental attitude.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find that the engineer, while he may pore for hours over his drawings and exercise all his energies in seeing that construction is carried out in accordance with his ideas, is by no means always so set down what he has done on paper for the benefit of his colleagues, still less to expatiate to a lay public on the way in which his work, more than one aspect, improved the conditions of life.

From this point of view more-over, he has not been too well treated by the historian and, with almost the single exception of Mr. Kipling, the novelist has also neglected that romance which, in the widest sense, "brings up the 815."

It was therefore fitting that the Royal Empire Society should have devoted the meeting held at the Hotel Victoria, London, to a consideration of what engineers have done for the Empire, and that they should have called on such distinguished representatives of our profession as Mr. Ralph Freeman, Mr. Julian Tritton, Brigadier-General Hammond and Colonel Pollard-Lowley to tell them in twenty minutes something about their work.

CLYDE ORDER FROM GERMANY

A contract for the ventilation equipment of the passenger liners at present being built in Germany for the Norddeutscher Lloyd and the Hamburg-Amerika Line has been received by a Scottish firm. Altogether there are five ships under construction for these companies, three being for the Hamburg-Amerika Line and two for the Norddeutscher Lloyd.

The equipment will be similar to what was fitted by the same firm on board the German super liners Bremen and Europa.

The result must have been to show how much such structures as the Sydney Harbour Bridge, the Willingdon Bridge at Calcutta, the Harding Bridge over the Ganges, and the Zambesi Bridge, the development of such ports as those at Haifa, the construction of many miles of railways in India, Ceylon, Malaya, West Africa and Uganda, and perhaps above all, the lay-out of extensive irrigation systems in more than one of the King's Overseas Dominions, have done to save life, and both materially and morally to raise the standard of living.

To illustrate this opinion, only one quotation taken from Colonel

THE AFFAIRS OF CELLINI

The Story Of A Great Lover, A Great Artist—The Most Charming Rascal Of All Time

(By LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE)

Below: "Your reputation as a great lover is made of mere words," the Duchess said calmly.

Benvenuto Cellini is the most noted goldsmith, fighter—and lover in all Italy in the 16th century. Forced to kill many of his enemies, he is finally doomed to be hanged after he had finished a set of golden plates for the Duke and Duchess of Florence. Della, Benvenuto's only real love, serves the Duchess and the Duchess has secretly had Benvenuto make a duplicate key to her apartment with orders to bring it on a certain night. On that night the Duke of Florence is secretly entertaining Angela, Benvenuto's beautiful model, at the summer palace and the Duchess arrived to have her try with Benvenuto.

The Duchess felt that she had to say something, or scream. If she insisted too much on the Duke's retiring and taking a sleeping potion, suspicious would creep into even his dull brain.

"Those two dinners—but still I trust you, Alessandro. I know that you would not deceive me. I trust you quite as much as you trust me. You would never deceive me a whit more than I would deceive you."

"Certainly not, my Lady, I—eh? What's that? Oh yes, to be sure."

"I shall not have a moment's rest until I know that you are safely asleep, you are such a big overgrown boy."

There was nothing for the Duke to do but to go to his chambers and pretend to retire. Then, when the Duchess was asleep, he could come out and finish his love making with Angela.

He got up and started for his chambers. The Duchess pretended to yawn and went to the door of her chambers.

"Sleep well, my Lord. Good night," she said, and softly entered her rooms.

Once in her boudoir she shot the bolt and began to prepare for the arrival of Benvenuto.

Two of her Ladies-in-Waiting were helping her, thinking that she was going below again. One of these was Della Santini who had been almost sick with fear and horror upon learning that Benvenuto was doomed to die. Her notes to him to flee had been unable to persuade him.

Kept Her Promise

As for the Duchess, she did not intend that even her trusted Ladies-in-Waiting should know of this trust with the dashing Benvenuto Cellini.

As for Benvenuto, he intended to present that golden key, and himself, to the maturely charming Duchess of Florence if it were the last thing he did on earth. Darkly cloaked he had made his way to the Summer palace without incident. The Duchess had kept her promise and put one of her own guards at his home-door so that he could get out without the necessity of fighting a group of the Duke's guards.

The guards at the Summer palace were, as always, in times of peace, ordered for two at the portcullis and a few in the garden in the vicinity of the quarters of the Duke and Duchess, these guards were floating inside, having an easy life of it.

A broad avenue made an easy bridge for Benvenuto to use in getting to the wall. He well knew the location of the apartments of the Duchess, for he had been at the castle on several occasions in conference with the Duke concerning ing various pieces he was commissioned to make.

On the wall he glanced cautiously about. Two guards, their steel casques glinting in the moonlight, were slowly pacing down a garden path. As soon as they had turned from sight behind trimmed boxwood and clipped yews, Benvenuto grasped a limb of a tree and quickly climbed down to the garden.

It was not difficult for him to climb up the vines and to step over the balcony rail.

Benvenuto then produced the golden key he had made, which was on a silken cord with the original he had used as a model, but before he unlocked the door to the boudoir of the Duchess, he pushed aside a curtain at the window and peered in.

He could see the Duchess, standing with her back to him, while his own beloved Della was arranging the tiara in her hair. Della stepped back to better see the effect and saw the face of Benvenuto at the window.

"Oh," she gasped.

"What is wrong?" the Duchess asked, looking about. But Benvenuto had withdrawn and pushed back the window curtain.

"I tripped, my Lady, and turned my ankle, it is nothing," Della explained.

"You may go, now."

The two bowed and departed. Della was pale but the Duchess thought it was due to her turned ankle.

Benvenuto peered in again. Seeing only the Duchess there he softly unlocked the door, stepped in and closed it.

"So you have come, Benvenuto," she said, calmly.

"On the very moment that you commanded me, my Lady," he replied, remaining where he had entered. The Duchess approached him slowly her face still calm, but she was unable to hide the admiration in her eyes.

"I did not really expect you. I feared the obstacles in your path might be too severe," she said, in the coolly impersonal voice that she used on regal occasions.

"Obstacles are but made to be overcome, my Lady. True," he lied with cheerful bravado. "I swam through rivers of blood. Five of your Excellency's guards paid with their lives in trying to stop me and save others. He would not. But I would have come to you, my Lady, though I had to crawl to your feet and die."

A very plain speech. You may kiss my hand."

THE MAYOR WAS INSULTED

Because Premier Got Precedence

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Feb. 16.

Because the Prime Minister was given precedence over the Mayor and Mayoress at a "Burns Night" dinner at Swindon, the town clerk (Mr. W. H. Bentley) has sent a strong protest to the Swindon and District Caledonian Society.

"Swindon," he writes in his letter, "has achieved the unenviable distinction of possessing a society which invites the chief citizen of the borough to enjoy its hospitality and thereupon deliberately affronts and insults both the Mayor and Mayoress by refusing to accord to them the position to which they are entitled by long-established custom and by statutory provision."

"Will Not Be Dictated To"

The reply of the President of the Caledonian Society, Dr. Darling, is:—

"Let me assure you that the position arose neither through mistake nor ignorance. The Committee of the Caledonian Society refuses to be dictated to by you, or anyone else, as to the precise position the Mayor should occupy at their dinner table."

Mr. Alfred T. Butler, Windsor Herald of the College of Arms, said that the Society's action was correct.

"The key to the whole situation is who is the host," said Mr. Butler. "If it were a civic function in the Town Hall at which the Mayor was the host, then he would take precedence over the Prime Minister."

"But when he is only a guest he has no claim to precedence over the Prime Minister."

we call 'honour.' You are my Duchess—my Ruler!"

"Honour, indeed," the Duchess said, angrily. "Your masculine metaphysics would turn an honest woman's stomach! Honour! That shining word which men use to cover their cowardice!"

The Duchess started away but turned back.

Poor Lovers

"You may give me BOTH keys," she said pointedly, "I will accept them, then you may leave."

She extended her hand but Benvenuto did not move.

"GREEK" GAY COMEDY

Now Showing At The Star

One of the gayest of stage comedies in recent years serves as the basis for the first screen vehicle under her contract with Samuel Goldwyn. It is "The Greeks Had a Word for Them," and is now showing at the Star Theatre to-day.

This comedy from the witty pen of Zoe Akins was one of the big hits of the last New York stage season. Sidney Howard, author of such sophisticated plays as "They Knew What They Wanted" and "Lucky Sam McGarvey," was selected by Samuel Goldwyn to make the screen adaptation.

With Miss Claire in the trio of Broadway musketeers around whom the United Artists comedy revolves are Madge Evans and Joan Blondell. Lowell Sherman directed and played one of the leading male roles. Others in the cast are David Manners and Phillips Smalley. All gowns worn by the feminine stars were designed exclusively by the world-famed Chanel, of Paris.

"MERRY WIDOW"

Beginning Tomorrow
At The Oriental

Ernst Lubitsch's gay Continental production of "The Merry Widow" comes to the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald heading an elaborate cast.

In the sequence in Maxium's famous cafe in Paris, a bevy of pretty dancing girls dance the daring and celebrated "Can-Can," Parisian dance.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gave the glamorous Franz Lehár musical romance an elaborate staging, with huge settings, gorgeous costumes and lavish detail. The cast includes such artists as Edward Everett Horton, Una Merkel, George Barbier, Minna Gombell, Ruth Channing, Sterling Holloway, Donald Meek and Herman Bing.

"The Merry Widow" bring to screen the most successful combination of Lubitsch, Jeanette MacDonald and Maurice Chevalier in a picture greater in scope than any in which they have ever worked together.

THE QUEEN'S AFFAIR

The King's Next Attraction

A magnificent coronation scene is one of the highlights of "The Queen's Affair," the film co-starring Anna Neagle and Fernand Gragney which is to be shown at the King's Theatre on Wednesday. The scene is laid in the palace throne-room a vast set of Rococo design, eight thousand square feet in area, with a vista through three doors twenty-five feet high and ten feet wide.

Through these doors Herbert Wilcox, the director, has secured a long tracking shot, as Anna Neagle walks into the throne-room in full coronation robes followed by a host of court dignitaries in solemn procession.

The Queen's progress is made between two rows of soldiers in full regalia, her bodyguard, and she finally stops before the Archbishop, who crowns her. She then continues her passage across the throne-room to assume the throne.

Fifty ex-cavalry men were used as the bodyguard, and the scene was most impressive as they stood with unsheathed swords at the salute in honour of the Queen, while the procession moved forward to the strains of an organ playing "Abide With Me."

The brilliance of the uniforms and the dark vestments of the ministers throws into great relief the all-white robes of the queen. The train, which Anna Neagle wears throughout this sequence is sixteen feet long and three feet six inches wide, weighing twenty pounds.

It is entirely of satin, edged with a six-inch wide strip of ermine and is embroidered with the royal arms and a floral design in gold thread, pearls, opals and diamonds.

CLEOPATRA

Coming To Alhambra
And Central

"Cleopatra" Cecil B. Mille's newest Paramount production, which tells the dramatic story of Egypt's glamorous Queen and her love affairs is coming to the Alhambra and Central Theatres on March 18th.

Claudette Colbert, Warren William and Henry Wilcoxon play the principal roles, and the supporting cast includes Ian Keith, Joseph Schildkraut, C. Aubrey Smith, Gertrude Michael, Irving Pichel, William Farnum, Robert Warwick, Edwin Maxwell and Harry Berensford.

The film is the adaptation of the screen play which was written by Waldemar Young and Vincent Lawrence.

Of all love stories, the romantic side of Cleopatra, is perhaps the greatest love theme ever printed on any page, either history or fiction. Using Rome and Egypt in all their glorious splendour for his background, DeMille has woven his screen story into spectacular entertainment.

When Marc Antony, stalwart warrior and a staunch friend of Caesar, sets out to capture Egypt's beautiful Queen, little does he realize he was to get her. Not with sword and shield, but with his heart. And when love changed the Queen into a woman, the destiny of the entire world was changed.

Staged against the background of Rome and Egypt in their glory, the film utilized more than 5,000 actors, workmen and technicians to bring a faithful account of the undying love story of these two mortals to the screen.

AT THE QUEEN'S TO-MORROW

Biography Of A Bachelor Girl

Film entertainment of exceptional merit is in store for local moviegoers with the opening to-morrow of the engagement of "Biography of a Bachelor Girl," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of the Theatre Guild success, "Biography," which enjoyed a long run on Broadway with Ina Claire in the starring role.

The photoplay version of S.N. Behrman's social comedy brings together for the second time Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery whose joint performances in "When Ladies Meet" made that one of the most delightful of last season's pictures.

The distinctive supporting cast features Edward Everett Horton in the role of a pompous, big-wig politician from a backwoods state; Edward Arnold, whose performance as the drunken millionaire husband in "Sadie McKee" made him Hollywood's most sought-after character actor; Una Merkel, without whom no comedy cast is complete; Charles Richman, who created the role of "Kinnicott" in the original play; Greta Meyer and Willard Robertson.

Everyone connected with the filmization of "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" is an expert in his or her field. Behrman, author of the play, was written such outstanding successes as "Brief Moments," "The Second Man" and "Meteor" to say nothing of the dialogue of Greta Garbo's "Queen Christina."

Anita Loos, who wrote the talkie script, is noted not only for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" but also for such Jean Harlow cinema hits as "The Girl from Missouri" and "Red Dust."

Edward H. Griffith, who directed the new picture, has long been associated with Ann Harding and was largely responsible for such of this star's hits as "The Animal Kingdom," "Paris Bound" and "Holiday."

The photoplay of "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" is the work of James Wong Howe, crack M-G-M cameraman, who achieved the outstanding photographic work seen in "Viva Villa" and many other productions.

No better selection than Miss Harding and Montgomery could have been made for the leading roles of the story which concerns a young lady portrait painter, slightly down on her luck, and a magazine editor equally anxious to better his fortunes. When these two put their heads together and join their respective careers, plenty of action and excitement ensue.

Final Showings
At The Queen's

"The Line-Up" terminating its local engagement to-day at the Queen's Theatre a Columbia production depicting in fascinating detail the inner workings of a powerful group of fur racketeers who eventually land in the police line-up, from which the motion picture derives its title.

Coupled with this dramatic expose is the romantic love story of the young detective and the girl he is forced to subject to the humiliation and disgrace of the line-up. He arranges for her temporary release, plants her as a stool-pigeon, solves the series of fur robberies that have baffled his colleagues for months, and wins a lieutenantcy and a wife!

William Gargan is cast as the embryo detective. Formerly on Broadway, he came to Hollywood last year to repeat the part of the ex-prize fighter butler in the screen version of "Animal Kingdom." He has been featured in several pictures since, but his role in "The Line-Up" is said to be the most colourful of his brief but significant screen career.

Marion Nixon is co-featured as the attractive check-room attendant accused of theft who falls in love with Gargan. John Miljan is cast as usual, as the villain, but his role of the suave proprietor of a "hot" fur shop is unlike any part he has yet played. Noel Francis, alluring blonde actress, is featured, as his assistant, while Harold Huber another recruit from the New York stage, is the gangster accomplice. Others in the cast

The nonsensical story concerns the comics' introduction into a feud when they deliver their orphan ward to his family and Southern estate, which he suddenly inherits. The comedy swells to side-splitting proportions when Wheeler courts the opposing leader's daughter and Woolsey essays the role of arbitrator between the enemy clans.

"Kentucky Kernels" introduces locally the catchy melody, "One Little Kiss." In the film, the song is a musical background for some eye-filling dances by a chorus of gorgeous girls; and several members of the cast offer pleasing vocalizations.

The world's most entertaining pack of liars got together in a brand-new idea in mystery-thriller, a film entitled "Private Scandal," produced by Charles R. Rogers for Paramount. It opens to-morrow at the Alhambra Theatre, with a cast headed by ZaSu Pitts, Phillip Holmes, Mary Brian, Ned Sparks and Lew Cody. Ned Sparks and ZaSu Pitts are an unique combination for a mystery film but they give splendid performances in two of the most laugh-loaded roles they have had in years. Sparks is cast as the exasperated detective who eventually solves the mystery while Miss Pitts is the excitable, bewildered secretary of the man who is the focal point of the problem.

The story, based upon an original by Bruce Manning and Vera Caspary, tells of a real estate broker, threatened with ruin unless he can raise funds to cover stock market losses. Unable to borrow, he decides to kill himself so that his insurance may cover the missing funds.

But, since his policies bar suicide, he must make it look like murder. He reveals his plan to Phillip Holmes, his daughter's fiancé, begs him to remove the gun after his death.

When Holmes is unable to stop Cody from his contemplated act, he comes to the office and finds the body removed the gun.

The discovery of the body sends the office into a turmoil. Each

The Proven STOMACH REMEDY for Bad Cases

Amazing evidence of the remarkable speed with which indigestion and stomach pains can be stopped has been revealed by medical experiments and X-ray photographs of actual cases. These prove the ingredients of 'Bisurated' Magnesia to be the quickest-acting and most effective known to medical science. Within 5 minutes a teaspoonful of 'Bisurated' Magnesia in a little water produced complete relief in cases where numerous other remedies had failed entirely.

Its Action Explained—

Simply take a teaspoonful of the powder in a little water. The moment this soothing draught reaches the tortured stomach it begins to sweeten the sour, fermenting undigested food. The contents of the stomach become as bland, and soothing as milk to the sensitive stomach lining. The pain quickly lessens and promptly disappears. By following up the treatment after each meal, your harassed stomach will soon lose its tenderness and grow strong, until you can eat whatever you like and enjoy every meal, without fear of wind and pain.

A NOTED

SUMMONED BY MISTAKE

Owing to some misunderstanding, Captain E. Holmes, master of the steamer Lyseum, was summoned before Mr. Grantham at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for allowing cargo to be worked on Sunday, February 24, without a permit from the Harbour Master.

When the case was called, Sub-Inspector Wright, for the prosecution, told his Worship that there had been some misunderstanding, and applied to withdraw the summons. This was granted.

Captain Holmes admitted working cargo. He had a permit to work cargo from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., but when he found the loading could not be completed in that time, the Chinese clerk got into touch with the Harbour Department who told him to communicate with the police.

The Chinese clerk told his Worship that he telephoned Water Police Station at 4.30 p.m. regarding the matter and was told by the sergeant on duty that it would be all right.

GAOL FOR CAT BURGLAR

Described by a police as a cat burglar, Leung Ng, unemployed, appeared before Mr. Grantham, at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, charged with housebreaking and theft of clothing at No. 59 Prince Edward Road, theft of a scarf from the roof of No. 229 Cheung Sha Wan Road, and possession of two screw-drivers, instruments fit for an unlawful purpose.

Defendant admitted the theft charges and the third charge was consequently dropped.

Sergt. Kennedy stated that, on his arrest in Shanghai Street the defendant took the police to 5, Yee Chow Street where a number of pawn tickets relating to the stolen property was discovered.

Defendant told the police that he had also committed thefts in the Tsim Sha Tsui and Sham Shui Po districts. He was an unemployed carpenter and had no fixed place of abode.

Defendant told his Worship that he had stolen in order to raise money to send his wife to the country.

He was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

FALSE TRADE MARK

Three summonses in respect of infringement of trade mark were taken out against Lai Chi Wan of 132 Yee Kuk Street and 134 Tai Nan Street, before Mr. A.W.G.H. Grantham at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

The summonses which were brought by Wong Shui, manager of the Sam Fung firm of 163-165, Pak Tai Street, alleged that the defendant had in his possession goods with a false trade mark; application of the false trade mark on the goods; and causing application of such false trade mark on the goods.

Mr. Geo. K. Hall Bruton appeared for the complainant, while Mr. Leo D'Almada, Sr. was for the defence.

The complainant said that he was the manufacturer of face powder, which had as its trade mark the "double cash." This trade mark was registered and had been in use for the past 20 years. In January he received certain information as a result of which he applied for a warrant to search No. 132, Yee Kuk Street.

Mr. D'Almada said that his defence was that his client was an employee and not the owner of the firm to which the summonses had been taken. He was not contesting the infringement at all.

After hearing evidence, his Worship adjourned the case.

ALLEGED ASSAULT WITH CHOPPER

Chinese To Stand Trial

Charges with assaulting Yau Kee a foki, of a stall in No. 14 Stanley Street, thus causing grievous bodily harm, Ng Kwong, a 34-year-old unemployed, was committed to stand his trial at the next Criminal Sessions by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon.

Det. Sergt. E. J. Clarke conducted the prosecution, while accused was not legally represented.

At the outset of yesterday's proceedings, Dr. G. H. Thomas, medical officer of the Government Civil Hospital, said that on January 24 at about 8.30 a.m. Yau Kee was admitted to the hospital. Yau Kee had a chest wound of 4 inches long on the left front chest, and it was stitched up by him. The ribs were exposed by the cut. In witness's opinion, the wound was caused by some sharp instrument, such as the chopper exhibited in court.

Asked by his Worship whether it could be possible for the wound to have been self-inflicted by Yau Kee when he fell on the ground with the chopper in his right hand, witness replied it would be improbable, because of the position of the wound.

Story of Assault

The complainant, Yau Kee, said that he was a foki in the stall which occupied No. 14 of Stanley Street. Sometime after eight on the morning of February 24, defendant came to eat some rice. Witness did not know accused. After accused had eaten, witness asked him for payment. Defendant refused to pay, as he had no money. Other people were then coming to eat and witness had to attend to them, and during this time witness did not know what accused was doing. The next thing witness knew was that he had been struck with the chopper just as he had finished serving one of the customers. The chopper was on the right side of the stall where accused must have picked it from.

After being struck, witness turned to the left, and he saw accused holding a chopper in his hand. Fearing that the latter might strike him, witness then put his hands around accused. Passers-by came to drag accused away from witness while Yau Kee, a foki, from a nearby stall took the chopper out of accused's hand. Accused then ran towards Wanchai along Stanley street. Witness did not see accused again, until four days ago when he appeared in court.

Yau Cheuk Hung, a holder of a stall next to where the incident was alleged to have occurred, said that accused was known to him as "so jai" or "fool," and when called by this nickname, accused never got angry. Witness saw accused strike complainant.

Complainant Held Chopper

Making a statement in the box, accused said: "He (complainant) teased me. I held his hand. He was holding a chopper. He cut himself when we fell. Both of our hands were on the chopper."

When the charge against him was read to defendant in the detective office by an interpreter, accused stated: "When I was struggling with him (complainant), he was holding the chopper. He cut himself."

After Police evidence was called, his Worship committed accused as stated.

Wong Fuk-cheung, 19, said by the police to be able to speak English and to have returned a year ago from Singapore, was charged before Mr. Grantham at the Kowloon Police Court yesterday with stealing five pieces of clothing and three pairs of shoes from a Chinese actor with whom he was formerly employed.

Defendant was sentenced to two months' hard labour.

Eight coolies of the Sanitary Department appeared before Mr. Grantham at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, charged with theft, by public servant, of a quantity of pig fat. Sub-Inspector Cunningham said the police had no evidence to offer, and applied to withdraw the charge. The defendants were accordingly discharged.

For trespassing in the cell passage at Yau Ma Tei Police Station, Lee Ming was fined $5 or seven days' hard labour by Mr. Grantham at Kowloon Police Court yesterday. It was stated that defendant was seen talking to prisoners. Defendant claimed that he went to see a Chinese constable and when questioned by the Magistrate the constable stated he did not ask the defendant to come and see him.

Summons before Mr. Schofield at Central Magistracy yesterday for driving in Queen's Road between Arsenal Street and the Monument, which was temporarily closed to traffic on February 23 during the Race Meeting, Messrs. A. E. Medina, R.A., A. Nicoll, W. J. S. Kay and T. G. Maude were fined $5 each.

Before Mr. Wynne-Jones at Central Magistracy yesterday, Wong

DEATH OF OLD H.K. BOY

Capt. D. L. Clarke

Many old residents of Hong Kong will grieve to learn of the tragic loss suffered by Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Clark (now residing at Heathstock, Camberley Surrey) by the death of their only son, Captain D. Lindsay Clark, 2/11th Sikhs Regiment (Ludhiana, Sikhs).

Born in Hong Kong, and educated at Mill Hill, he joined the Indian Army, and for the past seventeen years had been stationed in the region of the North-West Frontier.

He was home on furlough this year and had to enter a London nursing home to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Complications set in, apparently arising from an attack of dysentery from which he suffered last year in India, and he passed away on February 8th.

Many old Hong Kong friends of the family attended the funeral, which took place at Frimley Parish Church on February 11th.

Captain Clark was married at St. Columba's, Port Street, London, S.W. about five years ago, and leaves a widow but no children.

DEATH INQUIRY RESUMES

Constable Found Shot Dead

Further evidence was taken in the coroner's inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of Ngan Yam, Chinese Constable C324, as the result of gunshot wounds received, at the resumption of the hearing held yesterday at Central Magistracy.

Mr. W. Schofield sat as Coroner and was assisted by the following jury: Messrs. C. M. Souza (foreman), Lo Tak Chung and Ho Yu Tin.

It will be remembered that deceased was found dead on the hillside in the Bayview District in the morning of January 28.

Brother's Evidence

Ngan Cheung, brother of deceased, employed in the Chinese Maritime Customs said that he last saw his brother in the beginning of January. Deceased looked cheerful and did not mention about being hard-up for money and he also did not say anything about his home affairs during their conversation. Witness could not say why his brother should commit suicide.

Kwong Tai, a widow, who knew deceased, said deceased and his concubine got on well together. She saw deceased last on the night of January 24, and he seemed to be cheerful.

Wong Mui, married woman, said that the last she saw of deceased was on January 23. She never knew deceased to gamble. In February, last year, she went to hospital to see deceased. Deceased told her that he had taken opium and also told her that he had had a quarrel with his concubine.

Chiu Kwai, a widow, aunt-of-deceased said that she visited the latter when he had taken opium at his house. Deceased told her that he had had a quarrel with his concubine.

After further evidence was taken, his Worship adjourned the hearing until next Thursday.

Yick Kwan, a widow, was charged with possession of dutiable tobacco. Defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $14, or three weeks' imprisonment. Revenue Officer Grimmett said defendant was arrested at the Canton Wharf and the tobacco was found in a padded jacket she was wearing. Defendant's daughter, Chan Nui, aged 17, charged with the same offence, was also fined $14, or three weeks. She was also found wearing a padded vest containing the tobacco.

On a charge of returning from banishment, Chan Yau, aged 58, unemployed, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at Central Magistracy yesterday. The defendant was banished for a period of ten years on February 27, and was arrested on Thursday.

For a similar offence, Li Sang and Chung Wo were sentenced to four months' hard labour each by Mr. Grantham at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. Chung Wo said he had miscalculated the period.

COLLISION IN HARBOUR

Judgment Given In Claim For Damages

Judgment was delivered by His Lordship the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. Macgregor at the Supreme Court yesterday in the action in which Rhederal M. Jensen Aktieselskab, owners of the Michael Jebson, sought $100,000 damages from the Ching Kee Steam Navigation Co. Ltd., owners of the Chian Lee who counter claimed for $70,000 damages.

The action arose as a result of a collision between the two steamers in Hong Kong harbour on August 7 last.

In his judgment, His Lordship placed the whole blame upon the Chian Lee which was under the command of Capt. Kuichi Ishi, and completely exonerated the master of the Michael Jebson, Capt. T. Thaysen.

The Judgment

Giving judgment, His Lordship said on August 7, 1934, the s.s. Michael Jebson was on a voyage from Bangkok to Hong Kong. She entered the harbour by Sulphur Channel, clearing Green Island about 7.48 p.m. The weather was clear and fine, and although there was no moon, visibility was good. Through Sulphur Channel the Michael Jebson was steaming full speed ahead but at 7.48 p.m. her speed was reduced to half, or rather more than seven knots and when she rounded Green Island her course was set on 22 degrees true, a course which would bring her slightly to the west of the northern fairway buoy. Just after setting that course, the Captain of the Michael Jebson observed the lights of a vessel about five or six points on his port bow and about a mile distant. That vessel, the s.s. Chian Lee, appeared to be proceeding at considerable speed.

At 7.50 p.m., Captain Thaysen sounded one long warning blast of six seconds' duration. He then stopped his engines to take way off his vessel, a precautionary measure which he states he invariably takes about that point when entering the harbour by night.

When the Michael Jebson sounded one long blast, her officers heard from the Chian Lee one short blast, followed by one very long blast of fifteen to twenty seconds' duration, a blast which they attributed to the jamming of her whistle, and shortly afterwards two short blasts. They read this signal as an indication that the Chian Lee was altering her course to port.

The Michael Jebson at 7.52 p.m. gave a further signal of one short blast and altered her course slightly to starboard. The witnesses from the Michael Jebson are emphatic that there was no answer to that signal.

The Collision

The Chian Lee appeared to be maintaining her course and speed and as collision seemed to be imminent the Michael Jebson, immediately after her course was altered slightly to starboard, went hard a-starboard. Her engines were put full astern and a signal of three short blasts was given at 7.54 p.m. Two minutes later, the vessels were in collision, the stem of the Michael Jebson striking the Chian Lee about amidships, at an angle of about 80 degrees from her stern.

The Captain of the Michael Jebson estimates the speed of the Chian Lee at the moment of impact at about six knots.

Captain Thaysen has deposed that the stopping of his engines at 7.50 p.m. had nothing to do with the presence of the Chian Lee on his port bow, that it was a seaman-like and customary manoeuvre which the Chian Lee ought to have expected from any vessel on that course entering the central fairway, and that, until about 7.54 p.m. when he gave the order hard a-starboard, he had followed the same course, as to both speed and helm that he would have followed if no other ship had been there.

An Unfortunate Feature

It is an unfortunate feature of this case that the accounts given by the witnesses for the Michael Jebson and the witness for the Chian Lee differ irreconcilably on almost every material point as to course, speed, and sound signals, up to the moment of collision, and also as to the place of collision and the angle of impact. There is also a variation of seven minutes in the time recorded by the two vessels, the time of the Chian Lee being seven minutes in advance of the time of the Michael Jebson, which I have adopted throughout this judgment for purposes of convenience.

In these circumstances there devolves on me the unpleasant duty of deciding on which side the balance of truth lies. I have come to the conclusion that I cannot accept the story told by the officers of the Chian Lee, firstly because the testimony of the independent witness Alvinussen does not bear out their account either as to the time of collision or as to the angle of impact.

YORKSHIREMEN'S DINNER

Enjoyable Function At Hong Kong Hotel

The Roof Garden of the Hong Kong Hotel presented a gay and animated scene last night when the fifth annual Cabaret Dinner of the Society of Yorkshiremen in Hong Kong, was held. The President of the Society, Mr. A. Brearley, presided, and in the course of his witty speech, he referred to the sporting activities, industries and the scenic beauties of the county.

Over 200 guests were present at the function and among those at the official table were His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., K.B.E. (Patron of the Society), Lady Peel, Sir William Hornell (President of St. George's Society), Mr. A. S. Mackiehan (Chieftain of St. Andrew's Society), Mrs. Mackiehan, Mr. B. H. C. Hallows (President of St. Patrick's Society), and Mrs. Hallows, Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson and Mrs. Henderson, and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. B. Hancock.

A beautiful bunch of white roses (the country flower) was prominent on the President's table, while large pictures of Yorkshire beauty spots adorned the walls. In the foyer was exhibited an interesting souvenir of the 1933 Dinner in the form of a menu autographed by the four Yorkshire and England Cricketers whose names appeared thereon.

His Excellency Sir William Peel and Lady Peel arrived at 7.50 p.m., and were met by the President (Mr. Brearley) and Hon. Secretary (Mr. J. G. Meyer). The Committee were presented to His Excellency on the first floor lounge after which cocktails and hors d'oeuvres were served. The party then adjourned to the Roof Garden for dinner followed by dancing which was interspersed with witty turns by members of the Society.

Mr. J. Scott Harston, a former president of the Society, and described this year as "Toward Leeds Loner" was in his usual witty vein, whilst Mr. "Erbert" (Mr. H. H. Munday) provoked bursts of laughter with his "Albert" recitations. Willy Geall with his amusing patter was also a huge success and it was with reluctance that he was allowed to leave the floor.

President's Speech

After His Excellency, Sir William Peel had proposed the toast of "The King," the President, Mr. A. Brearley, said:

Your Excellency, Ladies and Gentlemen.—In rising to propose the toast of the Society I desire, in the first place, to extend a hearty welcome to our guests and particularly to the Presidents of the kindred Societies who have honoured us with their presence here tonight.

Last year and also the previous year this pleasing task fell upon the shoulders of Mr. Scott Harston, his shoulders are much broader than mine and well did he carry out his duty, and in doing so this year may I ask your indulgence for a few minutes. I ask you to excuse my shortcomings as this is my maiden speech. I have always fought shy of speech making and would much rather do the donkey work so long as I was quite sure that somebody else, I did not care who, did the speech-making.

Now, as to the county of Yorkshire, some people call it a "country." I can say with truth that it contains some of the most beautiful scenery in the country. If anyone doubts this statement I can only recommend him to motor say from Thirley, Skipton, Settle, Ingleton and up to Sedburgh, where my son is at school, and I am sure that he will then agree with me. I should not like you to run away with the idea that this is the only beautiful district for as almost everybody knows the districts, around Harrogate, Ripon, York and the outskirts of Sheffield are equally delightful. The beauty of Yorkshire's hills, the charm of its dales and the efficiency of its numerous industries are not surpassed anywhere. Of course, I know you will find that is not all Yorkshire and "whereas the comes thru," how many can say it? I wonder, is no one a nice. Well I am afraid that I cannot say it is a beautiful spot by any means but what I can say is that you can get as good a Yorkshire tea there as anywhere, and not only that you will get a good Yorkshire welcome and you know what that means if you doubt you ought to. I heard a fellow Yorkshireman say that Goole was a dreadful place and that Batley was a good deal worse but be that as it may I always like to go back and visit, the old folks that I knew when I was a lad. There is no doubt that the West Riding of Yorkshire has been very hard hit during the past few years but I am of the opinion that trade is improving in fact when I was last in the district several of the mills were working overtime which is a good sign.

Yorkshire Cricket

Now I know there will be one man here who will be disappointed if I do not say something about Yorkshire cricket although he is a wearer of the Red Rose and he very nearly sent me a telegram to Tientsin when Lancashire happened by some chance to beat us. I saw the Roses play at Sheffield last season and our side won by an innings. Yorkshire this year only finished sixth in the table but as the team lacked the services of Sutcliffe, Leyland, Verity and Bowes on several occasions for Test Matches and representative cricket it was hardly to be expected the team would be at its best. It is often said where do Yorkshire get all their players from and in reply I know that cricket is played by thousands every day of the week and on the law of averages they should find more than eleven good enough to play for the county, in fact they do as several Yorkshiremen figure in various other county teams. It might interest you to know that Leyland's benefit realised over £3,600, which was well deserved as he is a real cricketer and a trier from start to finish of a match. There is always great rivalry in the Heavy Woollen district in cricket and several very prominent cricketers have played for the clubs. The most notable was perhaps the late Louis Hall, a real stonewaller who, when playing against Sussex, was given instructions to stop in at all costs and he did for two hours scoring two runs and saving the match.

Football and Rugby

Football in Yorkshire has changed a good deal during the last thirty years and there is hardly a club of any size, Rugby or Soccer that keep to their own local players. The great split in Rugby was to be deplored, as Yorks at that time had a great county and very many good club teams but the split had to come about as open professionalism is much better than the veiled variety. I remember as a boy going with my father to football matches when the Northern Union was first started and at that time Batley had the finest team I ever saw play. It was team work from beginning to end, they were Batley lads with two exceptions and they appreciated the honour of playing for the Town Club. Practically the same fifteen played for four seasons and during that period they won the Championship of the League once and the Challenge Cup three times. The excitement at these matches was intense and if a man should miss a pass you would hear such remarks as this "Call yond chap a laker he'll never laker in this world" and a little later he may score a try and then he will be the best laker in all 'tworid.

You will all know that Sheffield Wednesday are in the semi finals for the English Cup and all Yorkshiremen will hope and one man here might even pray that the Cup will find a resting place at Sheffield for at least twelve months.

Great Rivalries

Great local rivalries exist in all things that appertain to the life of the various towns and this has no doubt a very stimulating effect on the various districts. Some towns are very proud of their roads and public buildings others on their reservoirs as some of the industrial towns need a tremendous quantity of water to carry on the manufacture of cloth. In Batley they make heavy woollens ranging in price from 10d. to 10/- a yard, in fact they'll make out if there's brass in it. I have recently seen the report of Messrs Taylors who took the lead in profit sharing starting the system as far back as 1892. The firm I believe have a capital of £500,000, half of which is now owned by the workers and this year they paid 10 per cent. on capital in cash and a

"HIAWATHA"

The Philharmonic Society's Concert

Coleridge Taylor's "Hiawatha" may be easy to sing but that does not mean that it must be sung without expression. In fact unless special care is taken and the imagination used to this end the monotonous metre of the verse is merely intensified.

However, one is always torn between the desire to give one's own honest opinion and the much easier course, as is sometimes done, to write it up in a superlative way beforehand.

A choir must always be made to sing softly. They never do it themselves we are all, strangely enough, equally to blame in this respect whenever we sing in a choir.

The tone of the choir was splendid and it is only because it was so good that one naturally wanted to hear its beauty in anything but a dead level.

The tenors did nobly but they were weak and few in number. Although they did their utmost they hardly came through when the four parts were in full cry. One may add that the Sopranos were magnificent and the basses except for one or two throaty voices, almost as good.

Congratulations to Mr. Conrado de la Cruz, not forgetting Mr. H. L. Eveille, Miss Flint and Mrs. Arnold for keeping the orchestra once again so well together. The same body of faithful players were present who worked so successfully in the "Merrill England" concert.

The solo work in the cantata is not an easy task. Mrs. Bowes-Smith, as soprano, did her part well. Her rather forward production however, made expressive treatment of the most moving solos in "The Death of Minnehaha." The solo "Spring has come" is somewhat angular in design but in this she rose to the occasion and made it most effective.

Mr. J. A. Kennedy was asked to sing at practically the last moment and did his work with the greatest credit and he thoroughly merited the applause with which his singing was received.

Mr. J. H. Billing knew his part and gave a good rendering.

In good choral singing one can usually point to a comparatively few pivotal people on whom the whole responsibility rests. Individually they would modestly deny this no doubt; but the thanks of the Society are assuredly due. In large measure to the most efficient nucleus. To such may one pay a humble tribute and record one's sincere appreciation of work well done.

bonus of 5 per cent. in shares on wages. The Grammar School which dates back more than 200 years has produced some first class students and I remember in two years we had six boys who won Scholarships for Oxford and Cambridge. The most notable scholar I should say is Professor Richardson who is now Professor of Physics at the London University and was awarded the Nobel prize a few years ago. The system of Scholarships in Yorkshire as far as I know is unsurpassed in any other county and a great many are awarded each year both for Oxford and Cambridge as well as for the younger universities. The Batley and District Hospital is one of the finest in the County and in addition to the local doctors they have the benefit of the Leeds specialists who are admitted to be of the finest in the country.

It is said that the great characteristics of the Yorkshiremen are his capacity for getting things done, his courage and his refusal to admit defeat or being second best to anyone and these you will admit are something to be proud of.

I have heard it said of Merchants visiting Bradford for the purpose of the plebeians trade that they have been made on the face of it very liberal allowances but when these have been examined it is said they amount to very little and this you will admit is the art of the salesman.

Yorkshiremen, as you are aware, are very fond of music and in this connection a story regarding a local Brass Band at Dewsbury who were practising for a contest might be told. The Conductor suddenly called a halt and he turned round to one of the men and said "Smith, my lad you're playing the wrong line don't you know?" Smith: "Appendix Jim lad, but this man think 'hisson' lucky if an 'on't

FRENCH BANK SUED

$591,501 Claim Succeeds

The Action brought by the Kwong Shing Cheong Sands, Ltd. (In voluntary liquidation) against the Banque Franco-Chinoise Pour le Commerce et l'Industrie for $591,501.33, was concluded at the Supreme Court yesterday when His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A.D.A. MacGregor, delivered judgment against the Bank with costs.

In his judgment, His Lordship directed an enquiry to be made to determine whether any part of the proceeds of the converted cashier orders was applied to the plaintiff company.

Mr. Elton Potter, K.C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., instructed by Mr. D. Lewis, of Johnson, Stokes and Master, appeared for plaintiffs, and Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C., and Mr. D. McNeill, instructed by Mr. E. Davidson, of Hastings and Co., were for the defence.

The Judgment

Giving judgment, His Lordship said that the plaintiff firm, of which Lau Ping was the manager, had a nominal capital of $1,200,000 and had an account with the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. In 1930, the Hanping Trading Company was formed and opened an account with the French Bank. Later they asked for equal facilities to be given them with defendant's Shanghai branch, where they had opened a trading concern also under the name of Hanping Trading Co.

In 1931, Lau Ping became general manager of the Hanping Trading Co., and requested the French Bank to open another account to be called the "B" account and to be operated only by himself or Stephen Tsang, an official of the Hanping. The French Bank acceded to all these requests.

In 1930 and 1931, the Sandozwood Association, through Lau Ping, engaged in many exchange transactions, the losses of which were paid by the Association whilst the profits were made out to them by the various banks concerned, in cashier orders or comrade orders, a distinction without a difference. It was with 73 of such orders, totalling $591,501.33, including five drawn by the defendant bank, that the action was concerned. Each of these orders was paid by defendants to the credit of the Hanping Trading Co. "A" or "B" account.

About September, 1932, Lau Ping disappeared and the Hanping Trading Company ceased to carry on business. An examination of the plaintiff Company's books showed no record of the orders nor of any indebtedness of the Sandozwood Association to the Hanping justifying the payment to them of the orders. Nor was there any record in the Hanping books of any "B" account with the French Bank. In these circumstances, defendants claimed the face value of the orders as damages for conversion, or, alternatively, as monies received by defendants for plaintiffs' use.

Lau Ping had no doubt improperly used the name of the plaintiff company for his own use and misappropriated profits earned on exchange transactions in a general course of fraudulent dealing which could have been stopped had the French Bank asked:—"Has not the plaintiff Company a banking account, and why are not these orders paid into that account?"

The defence had not maintained their plea that the orders were negotiable instruments, and in answer to their specific denial that the orders were plaintiff property because Lau Ping entered into the exchange transactions for his own benefit, the plaintiffs had argued that the apparent authority of Lau Ping to act as he did was the real authority as far as plaintiffs were concerned. The defendants had contended that the contracts were unenforceable in law because they were gambles, but there was no local legislation on the subject of gaming.

"I find that the defendant bankers were guilty of the conversion of each of the orders sued upon and there will therefore be judgment for the plaintiffs with costs," His Lordship concluded.

THE K. R. A.

Annual Meeting On March 15

The annual meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association will be held at St. Andrew's Church Hall on Friday, March 15, at 6 p.m. The report which will be presented at this meeting states that although the amount of building activity remarked upon in last year's report have not been maintained, the current year has nevertheless seen some features in connection with the development of Kowloon worthy of record.

It is interesting to note for instance, the appearance of two new sports clubs, one having come over from Hongkong—the Polo Club, and the other a new venture by Kowloon Tong residents. These latter also, have benefitted by a Post Office, a much needed feature in the district and one of which, it is hoped, residents in that suburb will avail themselves fully. There is further the provision of better post office accommodation in Kowloon, and progress has been made with the new Magistracy, the site having been levelled.

The typhoon signal station north of La Salle College was completed last year, and has proved a useful addition to the district. The completion of new buildings for the Kowloon Hospital has made available the Maternity Block which, it may not be generally known, is open to private practitioners. An Out-patients' Block is also ready, but this not yet in use.

Treasurer's report

The Treasurer's report shows that the total amount collected from members during the year, including outstanding accounts in respect of five years, was $528. Nine life subscriptions of $20 each were received.

During the year 22 new members joined the Association, and 21 resigned or were struck off having left the Colony etc. The total number of members as at December 31, 1934, was 362.

Total expenditure during the year was $499.13, and the balance in hand at December 31, 1934, was $1,729.74 against $1,670.65 for 1933. The amount on Fixed Deposit with the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank with accrued interest was $1,033.08.

The receipt of members' subscriptions was very disappointing this year, in spite of notices being sent on several occasions that they were due. It is quite realised that $2.00 is a small amount but members should understand that this subscription is the Society's only source of income, and as the Treasurer is convenient to get at, they should do their utmost to pay their subscriptions and assist the Association. The Treasurer's Office address is c/o Sands Price & Co., Ltd., 2, Ice House Street, just off the Star Ferry Hongkong side.

The thanks of the Association are expressed to Mr. John Fleming O.A., who kindly acted as Hon. Auditor of the accounts.

CHENGCHOW-HAICHOW HIGHWAY PLANNED

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Hsuechow, Kiangsu Feb. 25. Surveying work on the proposed Chengchow-Haichow highway will begin early next month under the auspices of the Honan and Kiangsu provincial governments. A part of the highway between Hsuechow and Haichow has already been sketched. The entire road will be 550 kilometers long, linking one of the most important cities in Honan with the sea-side terminus of the Lunghai Railway at Haichow, in Kiangsu.

It may be noted that since the loss of Manchuria, attention has been focussed more closely on the development of the north-western provinces, for which the Lunghai Railway has been regarded as one of the most important factors. In one way, the Chengchow-Haichow highway is an extension of the Lunghai. Therefore, it might well be considered an important factor in the cultural life, economic development and national defence of that part of China.

Construction work is expected to follow immediately after the survey has been completed, and the road will be opened for traffic two years later.—

VICTORIES OF THE LABOUR PARTY

In recent municipal elections both in London and in the provinces the Labour Party has scored many very conclusive victories. Labour's representation in nearly every area has been increased. It has captured command in seven great cities from the Conservatives, and the Labour majority wherever it existed has been increased.

A complete reversal of public opinion since the crushing defeats of 1931 seems to be reflected in this impressive series of Socialist successes. Do these results mean that Labour will not only control Borough Councils but also Parliament, and that the verdict which gave such overwhelming power to a National Government in that critical year is likely to be reversed soon?

That conclusion is hardly justified. The national and the local political issues are by no means identical. For local purposes in the cities the Labour Party organization is far stronger than for national purposes in the country as a whole. Besides, as a rule more than half the electors do not record their votes on these occasions. It has been demonstrated again and again that when the fate of Parliament is at stake, the decision registered at the municipal elections has been reversed.

It would, however, be a mistake to underestimate the changes in public opinion which these results in the municipalities reveal so decidedly, even when every consideration has been taken into account. It may be granted that the issue is a limited one, and that it has turned in the main on the question of municipal expenditure—the Socialists are advocating the provision of more public services at the expense of the rate-payer, whereas economy and a reduction of the rates is the Conservative platform.

But that issue is a significant one although limited. And the elections voice a widespread opinion that the National Government is too conservative in its advocacy of economy, and that a bolder policy of public expenditure on constructive works would be beneficial to trade. We are justified therefore, in concluding that the Labour Party has regained confidence in itself and has recaptured the confidence of its former supporters; that it will come back as a strong force in Parliament although it is not likely that it will be strong enough to unseat the National Government at the next General Election. A great deal of that moderate progressive opinion which used to vote Liberal has been drawn into the Labour fold, which has been winning fresh support in proportion as it has dissociated itself from a policy of violence and revolution.

COST OF LIVING IN SHANGHAI IN 1934

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Shanghai, Feb. 27.

Complaints of continued trade depression in Shanghai are so often heard these days that it is difficult to judge accurately whether times really are hard or whether they are more or less normal. The cost of living of the mass of workers provides, however, a convenient standard of comparison. According to it, conditions in Shanghai in the past year have been about normal, increases in some items of cost of living being offset by decreases in other lines.

The Bureau of Social Affairs of Greater Shanghai has just published an index which reveals graphically changes in the cost of living here since 1928. The index figure for that year being reckoned as 100. According to this table, during all these past years decreases in the prices of food and clothing have been offset by increases in rent, fuel and miscellaneous expenses, nevertheless the index for 1934 stands somewhat lower than in 1928, being only 97.35.—

GEN. DOIHARA'S VISIT

Speculation As To His Mission

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Mar. 8. Major-General Kenji Doihara, accompanied by Lieut.-Colonel Kanzo Usuda, military attache to the Japanese Consulate General here, left Nanning by plane at 11 a.m. to-day and will arrive here in the afternoon. If he and his party arrive here early enough, they will take a train for Hong Kong en route to Mukden.

Considerable speculation arises over the visit of General Doihara to South China. In an interview Mr. Hsiao Fu Chen, official spokesman of South-west Political Council, stated that he and other government leaders discussed only general principles with the Japanese general and did not touch on concrete proposals.

A correspondent for a London news agency succeeded in interviewing General Doihara during his recent stay here, but the visitor did not commit himself on anything apart from saying that he desires Sino-Japanese friendship and co-operation. He denied that any terms had been agreed upon or any loans would be advanced to the Nanking Government.

As a result of the tour of General Doihara, it is reported that certain Japanese interests are ready to advance a loan for the construction of an iron and steel plant in Canton. While this report is not confirmed, it is understood that two foreign firms have negotiated to supply the necessary machinery and equipment on credit.

TUNGCHOW PIRACY

Another Suspect Arrested

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Mar. 8.

Suspected as one of the pirates in connection with the piracy of the China Navigation steamer Tungchow, Chen Kwok Ching was arrested by the Chinese naval guards in Hai Feng town in Eastern Kwangtung. He is being brought back to Canton for trial. When it is second alleged pirate caught by the Chinese naval guard, the first one being Fan Ah Shui, who is awaiting trial here. Directing the round up of the pirates is Commander Tsoi Teng Fai, commandant of the naval unit in Bias Bay.

It is alleged that Chen Kwok Ching did not actually take part in looting the steamer Tungchow but he was the big boss just the same. He financed the piracy and supplied arms to his henchmen. All the "staff" work was done by Chen and Fong Yang who led the seizure of the Tungchow was but the second-in-command. Chen took the lion's share in all piracies.

Fan Ah Shui was a newcomer to the pirates' gang. Being a raw hand at the game, he was captured in a pirates' hide-out on a hill near Bias Bay, while other pirates made good their escape.

Most of the pirates are natives of Fan Lo Kong, a county near Bias Bay. The number is over a thousand and 350 have been killed so far.

HISTORIC PARISIAN BRIDGE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Feb. 18.

The Pont d'Artois, which is being widened, has had a more chequered history than most Paris bridges. It was so named to commemorate Napoleon's great victory, which humbled Prussia in 1806.

When, after Waterloo, the Allies occupied Paris, Blucher, who was in a vengeful mood, was for blowing up this affront to his country. The French offered to rename it "Pont Louis XVIII." Blucher, in spite of Wellington's pleading, was adamant. So Wellington posted a British sentry on the bridge, assuming that the Prussians would hardly go so far as to blow up a British soldier. They did not. But their failure to do so was not due to lack of trying.

FURTHER ADVANCE BY REBELS

Fears In Balkan States

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Athens, Mar. 7.

The whereabouts of the five rebel ships which left Crete three days ago are still unknown and the Government's fears that they will bombard the Macedonian coast and the Piraeus port at Athens have been increased by a destroyer suddenly looting out of the fog in the early hours of Thursday morning and opening fire on Salonika harbour. Owing to poor visibility or marksmanship or both, no damage worth mentioning was caused but the rebel ship was able to make good its escape in the fog. This incident has caused the Government to take precautions by laying mines in the Straits of Salamis in order to block the passage of the other four ships to Piraeus while the harbour of Salonika has also been ringed round with mines and the remainder of the fleet have been sent out on patrol duty.

A further minor success scored by the insurgents is the occupation of the island of Lesbos, the cruiser "Averoff" unexpectedly entering the harbour of Mytilene where a detachment of marines landed and occupied the docks and warehouses without encountering resistance from the garrison. From an intercepted radio message the cruiser is known to be making for Kavalla in order to support the rebels in Macedonia and it is assumed she has taken in coal and provisions at Mytilene.

ARTILLERY IN ACTION

In Macedonia itself the fog and bitter cold are still postponing the much heralded "decisive battle" although it seems that Kondylis is now preparing for action by opening a severe bombardment on the rebel positions. The whole of the Struma valley is echoing to the thunder of the Government's heavy artillery to which intermittent cracks of the insurgents' light field guns make but a feeble reply.

Premier Saldaris, in a statement made to Pressmen on the present situation, declared that the events in the last few days had rendered drastic measures necessary though all have been tried in an attempt to avoid bloodshed and civil war.

AFFORESTATION SCHEME OF YELLOW RIVER

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Nanking, Feb. 27.

The Ministry of Industry has decided to appropriate a sum of $20,000 to the three provinces of Kansu, Suiyuan and Shensi, which are situated along the Yellow River, to be used as a subsidy towards their afforestation work along the upper reaches of that river.

$2,000 of the amount will go towards expenses for supervision, while the rest of the sum will be equally apportioned among the three provinces for afforestation. The beneficiaries, however, are required to appropriate from the provincial funds for afforestation at least twice the amount of the subsidy which cannot be touched at all for administrative or labour expenses.

As soon as the provinces have specified the amount to be expended on afforestation, the Ministry will despatch a superintendent to the provinces to map out concrete plans, in conjunction with the local afforestation organisations.—

NO ROYAL VISIT THIS YEAR

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Feb. 16.

In the drawing up of the programme of official engagements for the year it is understood that the question of an official visit by a foreign monarch to the King and Queen was considered.

In view, however, of the heavy list of engagements in connection with the Silver Jubilee celebrations, this has been deferred.

A visit which in the normal course is due to the King and Queen of the Belgians, formally and personally to inform the King and Queen of their accession.

No visitors would be more welcome than a State visit by King Leopold and his Queen, but of necessity this will have to be considered at some later date.

GERMANY'S LOST COLONIES

S. African Defence Minister's Hopes

Hope expressed by Mr. Pirow, South African Defence Minister, that "Germany may again become a colonial Power in Africa," led to his being taken to task in the House of Assembly in Cape Town.

His hope was expressed at a welcome to a party of officers and men from the German cruiser Emden, who were visiting Johannesburg recently.

According to the official version of his speech supplied to Members of Parliament he referred to Germany as "a great Power with complete and honourable equality—a peerless guarantee for any world peace aiming in any way at being lasting."

The rising tide of the coloured races, he continued, rendered the maintenance and expansion of the white civilization a matter of life and death.

"In this spirit, might I," he added, "express the hope that Germany will again become a colonial Power in Africa."

"How, where and when this can be accomplished cannot at the moment be determined."

What gives point to the speech is the fact that one of Germany's most important pre-war African colonies, South-West Africa, is at present being administered by the Union of South Africa under a League mandate, and there is a movement on foot to get it administered as a Province of this Union.

Further, owing to the somewhat aggressively Nationalist attitude of some of the German elements in South-West Africa since the advent of the Nazis to power in Germany, repressive action has been taken by the Administration there.

THE CHARING CROSS OF SOUTH CHINA

Hong Kong As An Air Port

During the past week, the name of Hong Kong has been mentioned several times in connection with her possibilities as an air port. It will be recalled that the memorandum on the Air Estimates, issued on March 5, stated that an experimental service to connect Hong Kong with the main Australian route to Bangkok will be begun in the near future.

News has now been received that the extension of the Imperial Airways system from Singapore to Hong Kong is being actively considered and in commenting on the matter, the aviation correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" mentions Hong Kong as "the natural Charing Cross of South China."

London, Mar. 8.

Describing Hong Kong as the natural "Charing Cross" of South China, the "Daily Telegraph" aviation correspondent says that the extension of the Imperial Airways system from Singapore to Hong Kong was being actively considered. With it is bound the whole future of commercial aviation in China.

The French are working for an extension of the Paris-Saigon service to Canton. Experimental flights have been made and Sino-French relations in aviation matters have recently shown marked improvement. The Americans are planning to extend the Canton-Shanghai service to connect with the Paris-Saigon and are also experimenting with the Callifornia to Canton service with big flying boats via Honolulu, Midway Island, Wake Island, Guam and Manila. Thus there is the danger of Hong Kong being left out in the airline system unless effective steps are taken.

The correspondent says that the Chinese Minister for Communications is ready to welcome a Sino-British agreement for a joint company to operate lines to the South from Hong Kong provided it is under Chinese control, and this must also be put on paper.

Reuter learns that nothing is known in London regarding the report that Nanking has given permission to the Imperial Airways to fly in Chinese Territory.—Reuter.

INCREASE IN BUDGET

Japan's Expensive Navy

Tokyo, March 8.

The Budget for the year 1935-36, calling for a total expenditure of ¥2,190,844,000, involving the issuance of bonds to the amount of ¥750,357,000 to meet the deficit in revenue, was passed by the House of Peers to-day.

Compared with the budget for the current fiscal year, the sum represents an increase of ¥1,851,000. The Navy Office tops the appropriations with ¥530,193,000 followed by the War Office with ¥491,277,000, and the Finance Ministry with ¥463,813,000.—Reuter.

POSSIBLE FOES OF AMERICA

Great Britain And Japan

Washington, March 7.

After an animated debate, in which Great Britain and Japan were mentioned as possible foes of the United States, the Senate to-day approved an increase in the Army from 118,760 to 165,000 men.

During the debate, Senator Borah declared that he did not fear conflict with Britain or Japan, and he believed there was no possibility of any conflict with Britain.

"Why should she go to war with us when she secures everything she desires by diplomacy," he asked.

He declared Japan's policy was not directed against the United States. Japan's programme was "to extend into the Orient."

Senator Glass agreed with Borah that the United States was in no danger of attack. But Senator Hamilton Lewis was more pessimistic. He asserted the United States must prepare for menacing developments in the Orient where Japan's activities were dangerous to the United States.—Reuter.

Lady Young, wife of the Governor of Northern Rhodesia, who made a forced landing near Zambesi, has now rejoined her husband at Lusaka.

It appears that during a bumpy flight from Livingstone the compass became affected and she flew off the course. With petrol nearly exhausted, she was compelled to land in grass fifteen feet high and the machine overturned, she and her companion, Dr. Kirby, both being temporarily stunned. Later they struggled through dense jungle and lion and mosquito infested country until they reached the "Locust" Rangers' camp in an exhausted condition. They are now little the worse for the adventure.—British Wireless.

FUTURE OF THE POUND

Assurance Given In London

London, Mar. 8.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in the Commons last night gave a confident assurance on the position and future of the pound. The fall in its external value, he said, had no relation to anything that had taken place in Britain and there was absolutely nothing in the position which need give Britain moments of uneasiness. The internal value of the pound was unshaken. It was very different in that respect from the value of gold which had fluctuated to a considerable extent. It was clearly impossible to attempt in such circumstances to stabilise British currency in gold.

They had on either side currency anchored to the gold franc and dollar which were out of economic relations to each other. France and United States had enormous hoardings of gold which gave them a dominating position in asking for a gold standard. If Britain were to anchor to gold and in consequence of the policy of one of these countries were forced either to rid herself of what gold she had or to put up the bank rate, a serious state of affairs might begin to arise. He did not believe that the British government were in a position at the present time to take risks or to put the pound at mercy of the franc on one side or the dollar on the other.—British Wireless.

CREATOR OF PECHE MELBA

Death At Monte Carlo Of Famous French Chef

M. Escoffier, the famous chef and creator of peche melba, has died at Monte Carlo aged 88.

Escoffier learned his cooking as a boy at Nice, and after the kitchens of the Continent had taught him all they could, he came to London.

It was Escoffier who first introduced frogs to the British menu. For a long time London diners raved about a delicious dish called "la nymphe a la rose." They were very much surprised when they discovered that they had been eating frogs legs served with paprika sauce.

He invented peche melba at a time when Melba was the toast of the town, and he produced the sweet as a tribute to her at a dinner in her honour.

DR. KUNG WARNS THE PUBLIC

China Currency Reports Depreciated

Shanghai, March 8.

Dr. H. H. Kung, Finance Minister, issued a statement that the "Ministry of Finance is constrained to warn the public against repeated circulation in the past few days by a foreign Press Agency, purportedly on high authority, of alleged particulars of intended currency measures. The Government considers such rumours, for example as to the possible rates of stabilisation, as unworthy of specific denial, but it is ridiculous to assume for that reason that they are to be credited.

JOINT SETTLEMENT

Shanghai, March 8.

Mr. Li Ming and Mr. Tsu Yee Pei, chairman and manager respectively of the Bank of China, have made a statement deprecating the reports suggesting that financial circles in China have advocated a managed currency. It is claimed that while there would be no difficulty in depressing the dollar to 17d., it would be difficult to peg it to that level without risk of further decline resulting in flight of capital from China, which even a credit of £20,000,000 would fail to check.—Reuter.

INTERNATIONAL LOAN

Shanghai, March 8.

The National Government would naturally be glad to accept financial assistance which friendly powers had proposed to render China in the form of an international loan. declared the Finance Minister, Dr. H. H. Kung, in an interview with newspapermen to-day.

However, he would not commit himself definitely regarding such details as the amount of the loan or the countries involved, and the terms governing the security for the redemption of the loan.

Dr. Kung declared that negotiations were still progressing. He attributed China's need for a loan to the world-wide economic depression and the policy of the U. S. Government in purchasing silver from foreign countries.—Reuter.

HOME OPINION

London, March 8.

Every pound Japan lends to China gives her added power over China and if she could advance another loan to China without co-operation of the Western Powers it would mean a great advance to her "Eastern" policy, says the "Manchester Guardian."

Naturally Nanking is reluctant to accept such terms and would prefer another international loan on the consortium principle of Great Britain, France and the United States joining Japan. This suggestion is bluntly deprecated and though it has not yet been definitely rejected by Japan, it remains to be seen whether the Western Powers will put politics before profit or whether China will be left to Japan's all too embracing arms.—Reuter.

PROF. H. A. GILES DEAD

Authority on China

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Feb. 18.

Professor Herbert Allen Giles, one of the greatest authorities on the Chinese language and the Far East, has died recently at his home at Cambridge in his 90th year.

He was the father of three sons, all authorities on China. Two of them—now dead—were engaged in the Consular service in China. The third son, Dr. Lionel Giles, is Deputy Keeper of the Department of Oriental Printed Books and Manuscripts at the British Museum and Examiner in Chinese to the Universities of Cambridge and London.

versities of Cambridge and London.

Professor, Giles, who was Professor of Chinese at Cambridge University until 1932, had devoted practically the whole of his life to the study of China.

For 30 years he lived in the country, working in the Consular service, and from the first, he was quick to grasp the intricacies of a language which, both in the written and the spoken word, presents difficulties to most Europeans.

Within five years' residence in China he had written "Chinese Without a Tutor" which ran into eight editions. As well as works on some of the dialects, he had produced 40 general books on China.

He was the son of Dr. J. A. Giles, rector of Sutton, Surrey, the distinguished editor and translator, whose "Key to the Classics" will be remembered by many school-boys.

COMMODITY GAMBLING IN LONDON

Mr. Runciman Replies At Commons Debate

London, March 8.

The Labourite Mr. David Green-fell opened the debate in the House of Commons on commodity speculation. He said the sensational statements published in the British and Foreign Press created the utterly wrong impression that a British Stavisky affair had been discovered. "But things are not as they should be and we are concerned with the damage inflicted on the city business people and British credit," he said. Quoting figures, he estimated an additional half penny an ounce of household pepper gave profit of £1,500,000.

He urged the Government to institute a public inquiry in the circumstances and contended that the close connection between tin, pepper and shellac was not accidental. There has been a kind of conspiracy against consumers for abnormally high profits for a few individuals.

Was the Government willing that directors of jointstock banks should be engaged in secret enterprises to corner commodities and hazard the lives of business firms which they professed to serve with money and advice? he asked.

FAIR NAME OF LONDON
Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, replied for the Government, emphasising that he was concerned not with individuals but the fair name of the city of London. He considered an investigation could do no good. The only question was the form it should take.

Mr. Runciman suggested that wide powers were possessed by the Official Receiver, who would personally make the fullest possible investigation into the failure of the two companies concerned and everything appertaining to their business. "We can get right down to the bottom of this episode," he said.

Mr. Runciman suggested that until the whole of this process was exhausted there was no need for a special investigation of an entirely new character. He said: "I shall see that the investigations go to the uttermost limit" and added that on the continent, the "dreadful word Stavisky" which could only mean corruption, had been mentioned.

"Dare anyone say," asked Mr. Runciman, "that anyone connected with the Government or Commons was involved?" There had not been a whisper or suspicion in regard to any member. It is well for the world to know that purity in our public life has been maintained.—Reuter.

SIR MALCOLM SUCCEEDS

New Record At Daytona

Daytona, March 7.

"If I hadn't had a darn good car, I shouldn't be talking to you now," said Sir Malcolm Campbell when interviewed by Reuter after breaking the record.

"At one spot south of the measured mile on the north run, when the tyre treads started to go, I hit a bad bump and sailed through the air for thirty feet."

Sir Malcolm's actual time over the measured mile was 12.81 seconds or a speed of 281.03 miles per hour.

This time gave Sir Malcolm an average speed of 276.816 miles per hour, compared with the old record of 272.108.

The average speed for the flying kilometre was 276.160, and for the five kilometres, 288.474. His average speed for the five miles was 251.398. All of these are records.

"I am so happy that he broke the record," said Lady Campbell, immediately after the times were announced. "But I am disappointed that he could not have gone faster."

OFF THE COURSE

Sir Malcolm revealed that he had narrowly escaped death on the northward run.

His tracks show that he came off the course twice and raced up into the soft sand below the dunes. With marvellous presence of mind he managed to keep the car under control both times, but he admitted that it was almost out of hand.

Despite this nerve-shattering experience, he was steady as a rock when he arrived at the timing-tower, to be swamped by enthusiastic friends and greeted fondly by Lady Campbell.—Reuter.

PARACHUTIST'S DEATH

Holder Of World's Record Jump

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, March 8, 4.30 p.m.)

Copenhagen, Mar. 8. The famous Danish parachutist, John Tramm, holder of the world's record jump of 7,850 metres met his death in a tragic manner while about to attempt a new record. On Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m. an airplane mounted from Kastrup aviation ground near Copenhagen till it attained the height of over 8,000 metres. Tramm then tapped the pilot on the shoulder making a sign for the plane to descend. That was at 5.30 p.m. The plane dropped so suddenly that it reached the "warm" air stratum again in one and a half minutes, landing at Kastrup shortly after Tramm was found to be unconscious and was immediately taken to hospital, where he was found dead.

The belief is that Tramm used up all the contents in his oxygen bottle faster than intended and lost consciousness before he could adjust his reserve supply. It is said Tramm was literally suffocated by the rarified atmosphere at an altitude of 8,000 metres.—Transocean Kuo Min.

DISPUTE WITH ITALY

Explanation By Abyssinia

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Paris, Mar. 7.

The exact position taken up by Abyssinia in the dispute with Italy was set forth very clearly by Emperor Haile Selassie I in an interview granted to the special correspondent of the Paris Midi, stating "Abyssinia sincerely desires peace. The Government would not refuse the payment of indemnity. If such is justified, Abyssinia, however, is determined to settle the dispute otherwise than by means allow to be saddling with responsibility for the Italian invasion. Abyssinia would not permit any violation of its Southern Eastern frontier without having exhausted all available means of arriving at a just and peaceful solution to all questions involved."

The Emperor declared further that Italy's abrupt attitude was due to inaccurate information. Abyssinia was obliged to appeal to the League of Nations because of the obstinacy of Italy. The Emperor denied that Abyssinia is mobilising. "Abyssinia desires only one thing: to retain the territories that belong to it and to recover those to which it is entitled by former treaties with Italy. These latter territories have been torn away little by little by its neighbour. Nothing will be left undone to attain this goal by peaceful means. All we ask is that an impartial third party should establish the facts. We should be prepared to accept his decision and to carry out the award conscientiously even should the award be contrary to all expectations and declare the Italian claims justified."

TROOPS ARRIVE

Rome, Mar. 7.

General Rodolfo Graziani, who has just landed in Mogadiscio with the first sections of the Felicitas division, has been appointed governor of Somaliland and commander of the occupation troops, says an official announcement. This step was foreshadowed by Italian ocean some days ago. Mussolini has telegraphed cordial thanks to the departing Governor Rava, "for having prepared Somaliland so well for the exertions to come."

He further announced that commercial aviation material is to be completely renewed. The Italian airplane building firms have decided that all volunteers destined for East Africa will be incorporated exclusively in the Fascist militia.

CLIFFORD'S INN FIND

A Penny Relic Of Famous Retreat

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Feb. 18.

Where are the ghosts of Clifford's Inn?

When the moon rises above the nocturnal restlessness of Fleet-street and shines down on all that remains of the Inn, what do the ghosts think and say?

Except for one corner, the work of demolition is now complete. What was once an oasis of peace is now a muddy hive of industry. Men are working in gangs in a sea of mud, and huge lorries rumble in and out from Fetter-lane.

Mr. Reynolds, the ganger, was asked what his men had unearthed in this wilderness for Clifford's Inn is steeped in the history of London.

The Great Fire crept to its very doors. For centuries solicitors, barristers, writers, poets had lived and worked in its quiet, dusty rooms.

Every morning, in the old days, Samuel Butler would emerge in carpet-slippers before breakfast to fill himself a large jug of water from the public tap; and at night, back from his labours in the British Museum, he would play Handel to the deserted cobbles.

Charles Lamb was a frequent visitor to the Inn, for old George Dyer lived here; and here he received Southey and Sir Walter Scott.

The Only Find

Generations of Londoners had paced its curious egg-shaped cobbles, and found here a restfulness from the constant stress of the outer world.

Mr. Reynolds sighed and delved into his pocket. "This is all that's been found," he said.

And with an air of profound regret he produced a single, battered penny, a penny of the reign of George III.

"We'd hoped to find more," he admitted, "but absolutely nothing else has turned up. And there's no chance now."

He turned the twisted, darkened coin over in his hand; a coin that had once been bright and gay that had nestled, perhaps, amongst golden sovereigns in the pocket of a velvet coat.

It was all that was left of Clifford's Inn.

WEEK-END FOOTBALL

The Governor's Cup

(BY "PIVOT")

Will South China "A" be able to retain their unbeaten league record this afternoon when they visit Kowloon in their match against the much improved Recreio team? Last time when these teams met at Caroline Hill, the Chinese were very fortunate in snatching the two points from the Portuguese lads, after having been outplayed for three quarters of the game. Anyway, the match will be a big draw for the Peninsula and a very even, fast and interesting game, with the odds slightly in favour of the Chinese, should be seen. The Portuguese team might spring a surprise if A. V. Gosano and his mercurial strike their best form.

The attraction on the island will be the match between South China "B" and Kowloon Football Club at Caroline Hill, and the game should be well worth watching. South China "B" should have no difficulty in obtaining two more points.

The Artillery will be meeting the Lincolns and with the departure of Pardoe their centre-half, and Hopkins their back, the Lincolns should be successful.

Another good match will be seen at Polo ground, when the Navy will have as their opponents, the East Lancashire Regiment. The Navy have not been playing good football lately while the East Lancs have improved a lot. I think the Navy should just about win.

The best game in the second division will be, between the Navy Junior eleven and the Royal Engineers. The Engineers did extremely well last week by lowering the Lincolns 100 per cent. record and curiously enough, these two teams will be meeting next week in the semi-final of the Junior Shield. This game will give them a good test for their forthcoming shield encounter. The Engineers should, I think, win, but a drawn game is more likely.

To-morrow's Game

The centre of attraction in to-morrow's football will be the Governor's Cup. The first match was played last year and was won by the Hong Kong Football Association eleven.

On paper the team chosen by the Hong Kong Football Association is the strongest they could select. Albert Howe, the Colony centre-forward who has been chosen to be the leader of the attack, unfortunately for some reason or other, cannot play, his place will be taken by A. V. Gosano who has been chosen at right back. Gosano's vacated position at back will be taken over by Swain of the East Lancs. Rodger the goalie is also unable to play, Cocker of the Navy will be between the sticks.

The Chinese team is a very strong one and includes three of the best players from the Athletic. They are Tsui Ah Fai, their brilliant centre-half, Darkie Chan, who has been playing inside left, will be seen at left half while Mak So their left back will be the partner of Lee Ting Sang, and these two should constitute a very sound pair of backs. Lee Shek Yau of the South China "B" team will be on the left wing and will have the versatile Ip Pak Wah to support him. Fung King Cheung will be leading the attack. The game should be a good one and is worth going a long way to see. The team chosen by the Federation should win.

The Teams

The following are the teams—Chinese Federation: Wong Wing (S. China); Li Ting Sang (S. China) and Mak So (Athletic); Leung Wing Chun (S. China); Tsui Ah Fai (Athletic) and Chan Chun Wo (Athletic); Tao Kwai Shing (S. China); Tam Kong Pak (S. China); Fung King Cheung (S. China); Ip Pak Wah (S. China) and Lee Shek Yau (S. China).

H.K. Football Association: Cocker (Navy); Swain (East Lancs) and C. Pile (Police); O. Keneghan (Fusslers); E. McGuire (Navy) and C. Parker (Police); B. Gosano (Recreio); L. C. Higgins (Lincolns); A. Y. Gosano (Recreio); R. Ridley (Cincois) and B. L. Bickford (Club).

Saint's Player Suspended

Transferring Saint Joseph's fustodian who was sent off the field last week for striking an opponent has been suspended for the rest of the season by the Emergency Committee, when they met on Thursday night.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Doubles Matches Results

Only two matches were played off in the Open Doubles Championship at the H.K.C.C. ground yesterday, in which the Tsui Brothers and the Lu Brothers emerged winners in both rather even games.

The Tsui Brothers versus Wong Shu-wing and Luk Chun-chung encounter attracted a good number of spectators and went to the full three sets. Playing very aggressive tennis in the first set, Wong and Luk had no difficulty in annexing this stanza at 6-2. Both Tsuis took a long time to find the old form, and repeatedly sent the ball to the net.

Wong and Luk absolutely faded out of the picture in the second stanza, playing very poor tennis indeed. Although they recovered somewhat in the final set, in over-head work, they were unable to match the Tsui Brothers who smashed their way to victory by winning this set at 6-3. The younger Tsui, who played a quiet and cool game, contributed largely towards the victory, as the Singles title holder was inclined to be erratic.

Despite a first set lead, Y. W. Lee and Ho Sai Wing failed against the Lu Brothers, who won the next two sets. In Tak-cheuk was the only player who produced good tennis.

Results

Tsui Wai-pul and Tsui Yun-pul beat Wong Shu-wing and Luk Chun-chung 2-6, 6-2, 6-3.

In Tak-cheuk and Lu Tak-lam beat Y. W. Lee and Ho Sai-wing 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

EXHIBITION TENNIS

The exhibition match between Mr. Guy Cheng, China's Davis Cup play, and Mr. Tsui Wai-pul, Singles Tennis champion of Hong Kong is taking place to-morrow at the Chinese Recreation Club ground, commencing at 2.30 p.m.

SCHOOL SPORTS

St. Joseph's College Athletic Meet

A very large gathering of students and friends were present at the S.C.A.A. stadium yesterday afternoon, when the 19th annual athletic sports of the St. Joseph's College was successfully held under ideal conditions.

The meeting was a great success in every way, and produced keen individual rivalry resulting in a marked improvement over the showing of the previous years, many new school records being set up.

A lengthy programme of 59 events was carried through to a successful conclusion, and many fine finishes were witnessed, especially among the Junior boys.

The Senior Championship of the college was won by Lee Tat Khoo, the Junior by Fung Shun Choy, while the Midget Championship was carried away by M. Hussan.

In the Invitation School Medley Relay Race, which was opened to the schools and colleges in the Colony, the La Salle College again came in first, proving its superiority over the other two teams, the Wah Yan College.

At the conclusion of the day's events, the prizes were distributed to the successful winners by Mrs. G. R. Bayer, wife of Mr. G. R. Bayer, Director of Education.

Heartly thanks were expressed by the committee in charge to the following, who generously contributed to the prize fund or presented prizes:—Rev. Fr. P. Garmell, Mr. H. Dixon, I.A.O., Dr. Grace O'Leary, Dr. F. Bunt, Mr. Ho Ki, Dr. S. S. Strahan, Mr. J. Taggart, Messrs. Little, Adams & Wood, Mr. Li Ping, The Portuguese Staff of the Hong Kong & Shanghai Bank, Messrs. Edgar Brothers, Schmidt Co., Botelho Brothers, Carrol Brothers, Wing On Co., Sincere Co., The Sun Co., British-American Tobacco Co., China Sports, Past Pupils in the Hong Kong & Shanghai Bank, National City Bank, Chartered Bank of India, the Cable Companies, the Asiatic Petroleum Co., the University, and also the S.C.A.A. for the use of their ground and many others.

At the conclusion of the distribution of prizes, three cheers were called for Mrs. G. R. Bayer and the college.

"It is just as well," and the Duchess laughed cynically. "It is the tragedy of great ladies to discover that great men make poor lovers. That is why we generally marry half-wits. Come, give me the key."

Benvenuto stood motionless, continuing to smile at her. She stared back at him until they were measuring each other with their eyes. His refusal to give over the key pleased her. Suddenly she said, "You may kiss my hand again, with fervor, if it be possible."

When she extended her hand Benvenuto suddenly embraced her, held her closely and began raining kisses upon her lips, her cheeks, her warm white shoulders.

For a brief moment the Duchess made as though to push him away and then she desisted for a brief moment more. After that she was clinging to him, returning his caresses, learning that the reputation of this Benvenuto Cellini as a great lover was not made up of mere words, but of fact.

As they continued the passionate embrace the Duke, in the adjoining living room, was watching Angela. Believing the Duchess to be in bed and asleep, he had had Polverino bring the girl back. Angela stood by a mirror, brushing her hair and counting the brush strokes while the Duke was in a state of mental anguish over her slowness. He intended to go elsewhere with her but she insisted on the hair-brushing.

"Hurry, my dove, and make no noise," the Duke urged.

"Seventy-nine, eighty, eighty-one."

"Please, my sweet, let it go. Your hair is perfection."

COLLISION IN

duction of speed or alteration of course, and, secondly, for the reason that the evidence of the Marine Surveyor, Mr. Knagenhjelm, as to the angle of impact of the two vessels and the damage caused to the side of the Chian Lee by the forward tripping palm of the port anchor of the Michael Jensen, is to my mind conclusive against the contention of the Captain of the Chian Lee that the angle of impact was about 80 degrees from the bows of the Chian Lee.

On the voyages which admittedly these two vessels were engaged in and on the courses which they were following, the Chian Lee having the Michael Jensen on her starboard side, was, by Article 19 of the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea, under a duty to keep out of the way of the Michael Jensen, and equally under Article 21 the Michael Jensen was obliged to keep her course and speed.

Questions to Decide

The first question which I have therefore to decide is whether the Michael Jensen when at 7.50 p.m. she stopped her engines after giving a warning blast to the Chian Lee committed a breach of her duty under Article 21. I have put that question specifically to my nautical assessor and he has expressed the opinion that having regard to the fact that the Michael Jensen was approaching the Central Fairway it was prudent and seamanlike for her to reduce her speed as in fact she did, and that the Chian Lee as giving-way vessel ought to have expected the Michael Jensen to be proceeding at some such speed as in fact she was making.

There remains for consideration the bearing which the facts of this case. The duty of the Michael Jensen is clear. So long as there is a possibility of the Chian Lee clearing her she must stand on, and she cannot be held in fault for keeping her course and speed though she could have avoided collision by an alteration of either.

I am satisfied that the Captain and officers of the Michael Jensen kept a careful watch on the Chian Lee and endeavoured, at what they considered the right moment, to do what they thought best to avoid a collision.

Lord Corbett, P. in The Ranza (79 L.J.P. 21) defined the duty of the stand-on ship as being that she must wait until the other ship cannot avoid the collision and then she must act. I can find nothing in the action taken by the Michael Jensen in the agony of collision that convinces me that she was in any way responsible for the collision.

I find that the Chian Lee was solely to blame for this collision, and in each of these consolidated actions I enter judgment accordingly with costs against the owners of the Chian Lee.

Appeal For Help

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, March 8.

Urging the Canton and Kwang-si authorities to send troops to the aid of Kweichow, educational bodies in Kweichow, the provincial capital, in a telegram to Canton last night, stated that the situation in that province is critical.

The message added that refugees were pouring into Kweichow from districts north of the Wu Kiang River, which are now occupied by the Reds.

Three brigade commanders were seriously wounded on February 27 during the attack on Tsun Yi, and their troops were either killed or disarmed by the Communists.

The casualties to Nanking troops under Generals Wu Chi Wei and Chow Huan Yuan were about 5,000.

Gen. Chiang To Act

The situation in Kweichow is fully known to General Chiang Kai Shek, Chairman of the Nanking Military Commission, who has just arrived at Chung King, the new capital of Szechuen. He has sent several Szechuen regiments to march down into Northern Kweichow with the object of attacking the Red outlaws at Tung Tzu.

According to reliable reports from Kweichow, the strength of the attacking Communists is about 60,000 men with 50,000 rifles. A recent report from the Ministry of War stated that the number of Reds is about 30,000 with 20,000 rifles.

General Wang Chia Lieh, the Chairman of the Kweichow Provincial Government, is in command of about 30,000 men, while other provincial commanders have 15,000. In addition there are about 20,000 Nanking troops in the vicinity of Kweichow.

Canton Troops In Kwangsi. Lieut. General Chang Jen Min, Chief of Staff of the Fourth Group Army, stated to-day that Kwangsi troops will rush to the assistance of Kweichow as soon as the Nanking authorities give their approval. Asked whether General Li Chung Jen, the Commander-in-Chief of the Fourth Group Army, will inspect the fortifications along the Kwangsi-Kweichow borders, General Chang said he had no information on the matter.

CAPT. HEADLAM
RETIRESP. & O. Commander's
45 Years' Service

A career of nearly 45 years will be ended when Captain P. C. Headlam takes the 17,000 tons P. and O. liner Rajputana up the Thames at the completion of her present voyage. He is retiring on having reached the age limit.

He is a well-known figure in Far Eastern shipping circles, for he first came "out East" in 1897 in the P. and O. steamer Ganges. But he served his apprenticeship in sail before that, having first gone to sea in the Scottish ship Hollyrood in 1890, when she was engaged in the Australian and Indian trade.

Captain Headlam's association with the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co. is also a very long one, for he joined them in 1898, as fifth officer, and has been with the same company since, except for the war period when he was in the Royal Naval Reserve.

After demobilisation he was given charge of his first ship, the Lahore, since then he has commanded several P. and O. liners, the more recent Ranchei.

During the last three years he has commanded the Rajputana.

Captain Headlam thinks that the most important changes in navigation since the advent of steam has been brought about by the introduction of echo-sounding for determining depths and of wireless telegraphy as a means of communication and direction finding.

He has used both extensively and has found them a great help to the navigator.

PRINCE'S HEAVY PROGRAMME

Visit To Tenants Probable

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Feb. 18.

The news that the Prince of Wales has consented to become an honorary member of the Ski Club of Great Britain should be of great encouragement to British skiers.

So far skiing has been one of the few sports in which British teams take part in international events that have not had the patronage of the Royal Family.

The Ski Club of Great Britain already counts among its honorary members King Leopold of the Belgians—who took the place of his father, King Albert—and Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden.

Visit To The Duchy

Meanwhile, even though the Prince is on holiday, the task of arranging his programme for the summer continues. This must, of course, remain a tentative one until the King's plans for the Jubilee celebrations are completed.

The Prince is likely to be called upon to take the King's place at some of the normal State functions in order to relieve him as much as possible.

It is understood that the Prince hopes, however, to pay a visit to the Duchy of Cornwall towards the end of May. As Duke of Cornwall he takes his duties in the Duchy very seriously and rarely misses an opportunity of making a visit to his tenants.

Devonshire's Turn

Last year the Prince spent several days in the East Somerset and West Dorset portions of the Duchy. The previous year the Scilly Isles and West Cornwall were visited.

But the Duchy territory is too extensive to make a detailed tour over the whole area possible in one, or even two, visits.

If the visit matures, therefore, it is gathered that Devonshire will be the area selected this year.

FRITZ KREISLER ON ART & LIFE

Influence Of The Mechanical Age

Fritz Kreisler, when he arrived in England to give a series of recitals, had much to say on art and life.

Seated at the tea-table, a chance remark led Mr. Kreisler to speak of his conception of art as a creative force.

"Art," he said, "is a tremendous whole, and we who are its servants are only tiny little insignificant atoms of this great whole. Whoever thinks himself or his success important—beyond, of course, a legitimate allowance of natural egotism—cannot be an artist."

"This is what people nowadays forget. Success and the outward signs of success are the essentials. Before the war it was not so. A real artist, however poor and unrecognized, was respected for his achievement. Nowadays a man has to be successful before he can gain recognition as an artist."

Talent Common, Genius Rare

Kreisler considers that the last 30 years have produced very little in music and in painting. The general standard of instrumental playing, on the other hand, has never been so high.

"It is impossible" even to hear bad violin or piano playing now," he said. "Everywhere I go I hear fine fiddlers. But it seems as though the excellence were too evenly distributed and there are no geniuses."

"Stravinsky, Prokofiev, Hindemith—these and others made brilliant starts. But they all grew old before they matured, and their more recent works are not of the same quality as their earlier ones. This is not the way with real genius."

But Kreisler does not despair of the future.

"Nature seems to produce genius in the sphere where it is most needed at any given moment. The world after the war needed to be restored and rebuilt. All energy, therefore, went towards science, invention, mechanical proficiency. But, later, when towns are rebuilt, economic balance is restored, and when flying has become as fast and as safe as it can be, then it may be time for a new generation of artists to arise."

He was asked what he thought about the present generation of virtuosos.

"Again," he replied, "there have never been so many brilliant child players. I know many young violinists and pianists who play perfectly from a technical point of view. They can do everything. In fact, too much so, for they have really nothing left to learn, and this means that they do not develop the other sides of themselves."
